A VISIT TO THE FROM HOME

Wife Suffering Continually From an Incurable Disease.

ALMOST BEYOND AID.

We Visited The From Home on Easter Sunday, and Found The Wife In a Most Pitiful Condition. She Says She Cannot Endure It Much Longer.

"GOD KNOWS HE IS INNOCENT."

On Easter Sunday we had an occasion to visit Centre Hall in regards to the Post Office robbery and while in that little town to gather the correct facts of the crime that had just been committed, our thoughts went back to the time only a few months when the village was stirred with excitement because one of the leading citizens of the town had been cowardly shot and killed, and the assassin had made a clean escape. Several parties were suspected of committing the murder and some were arrested, the last being Jacob From.

We have heard so much from other lips in regards to his wife and surrounding and through curiosity we drove to the From home. It is a pretty little two story white frame house, with an out kitchen, a stable, and a large yard and garden, situated right at the base of the Nittany mountains, the second house to the left going into town. The little house was closed up all around as if no one was living there. We knocked at the front door several times but received no response, we then went to the side door and knocked, a very pleasant little lady came to the door and we told her our mission she hesitated at first in asking us into the house and after considering the matter carefully she extended the invitation. We were shown into the home where Jacob From the accused murderer of Josiah Dale lived.

The house throughout was as neat and clean as a pin, every thing in its place not even a picture crooked on the walls. The lady that admitted us asked us whether we would like to see Mrs. From, and we said we did. She took us up stairs and in a little back room in a neat, clean, little bed reposed the wife. Poor mortal, she looked as though she was ready to go to her eternal rest. The lady we suppose is about forty years of age, but one to look at her lying there on that bed of sickness would think she was eighty. Suffering excruciating pains continually. Nothing left of the poor woman but a mere shadow. She has been told that she cannot live long as she has three tumors, one on her right side one on her back and one on her chest. You can imagine the agony physically this woman is passing through.

We told her how kind and good a great many people were to her husband, how on Sunday's and week days the good ladies of the W. C. T. U. and Salvation Army would go to the jail and talk and sing with the men and that on Easter Sunday every man received a beautiful plant.

The poor creature smiled and said "I am glad they are kind to him, if the world only knew as well as I know that my husband is innocent of this crime of which he is accused I would be better satisfied. I suffer night and day from my disease, but the agony I have passed through since he has been torn from me has almost crushed me, I am afraid I cannot endure it much longer. But God knows and I know he is innocent and I feel satisfied that he will come home to me as soon as his trial is over. Oh I have prayed and prayed over this affair to my God and asked Him to help us and I have confidence and faith in my prayers and know they will be answered. If you see him anyways soon tell him I am praying and that I think of him continually."

Mrs. From would stop every once and awhile to get her breath, and with an effort she continued her story. Pity, yes we pity her from the bottom of our hearts, as she lay there on that bed of suffering both physically and mentally. We bade the lady good bye and she grasped our hand and fervently said, "Be kind to him and God will bless you."

And this is Jacob From's home and wife, no wonder the poor fellow is worrying and wishing to be with her so as to make her life happier and easier to live.

THE SEAT OF CRIME CHANGED.

Young Man of Bellefonte Get into A Bad Scrape.

The Seat of Crime has changed from Penns Valley and now the chapter opens up in bright glowing letters ROBBERY IN BELLEFONTE. This thing of petty theiving in Bellefonte and throughout the county is getting very monotonous. A boisiness man going to his home in the evening after his days labor is ended don't know for sure whether or not he will have any goods for sale the next day, as every now and then some one somewhere is being "touched".

The buisiness men are getting tired and weary of this kind of work and some of these days their will be a funeral of one of these persons who have become so troublesome.

On Saturday evening John Ammerman a young man about twenty-one and Brint Mungon a lad about sixteen got themselves into a peck of trouble. The boys must have been reading some of "Diamond Dick's" novels or drinking booze because they certainly did not do their theiving in any way near the way that a professional would get at the work.

About 12:30 one of them threw a stone through Peter Keichlines store window with the intention of putting out the night light, the stone missed its work and only broke the window.

George Jodon the policeman and several fellows were standing in front of Cox's restaurant which had just closed and when they heard the crash they ran over but the guys took down the "pike" and nothing was seen or heard of them until about two oclock. Jodon and John Kane noticed some one in Alexander Risks store near the glass works and they went over just in time to meet the fellows coming out the door, Jodon grabbed Ammerman who surrendered immediately and Kane tried to get Mungon but Kane says he struck at him with a large knife and in that way gained his liberty and was not caught until Sunday afternoon when Jodon arrested him at his home near the furnace.

They had taken a lot of inferior goods from this little Polish store in the way of cigars, candy and such like, and for these they must suffer a penalty of imprisonment, unless their friends can make satisfactory arrangements for a settlement of the affair. To bad, we pity the young fellow's and we pity Mungon's parents and Ammerman's grandmother.

Young Mungon has a good, kind mother that does all in her power to have her boys do what is right, and this lad especially, seems to be wayward as he was just released from jail a short time ago for some little crime he had committed, and on account of his age he was released on good behavior. Now he is in it again.

Ammerman is almost a stranger in the town, having come here a short time ago from Baltimore. He had been working for Thomas Beaver all week and had intended going to see his mother on Saturday at State Run, but for some reason that we do not wish to say he didn't get away. On Saturday afternoon he drove for Mr. Rhoades the Coal dealer, and expected to take the money he received there to go home with, but got into this trouble later. They were confined in the lock up over Sunday and today taken up to Fort Kline.

Morrison—Morgan.

On Wednesday evening at 9:30 Miss Mary Morgan became the wife of Mr. Andrew Morrison. This happy wedding was the culmination of a long courtship and no doubt will be a happy union through life. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Edwin Richardson of the St. John's Episcopal church at the William Clark home on Howard street which was purchased by the bride a short time ago and it was her desire to be married in her own home. The witnesses to this happy affair were just the immediate friends of the happy young couple. After the ceremony an excellent wedding dinner was served. We extend to them our best wishes and hope that happiness and prosperity will abide with them through life.

Takes Dr. M'Kee's Practice.

Dr. John Keichline; of Bellefonte, has located at Petersburg where he will take charge of the practice left by the late Dr. McKee. He graduated from the University of Chicago and spent a year in sanitarium work at Battle Creek, Mich. Completing his hospital work, he went to Egypt and was located there for three years but on account of the ill health of his mother, he returned to this country. Dr. Keichline is one of the most progressive and enterprising physicians.

GIRLS CLUB A SUCCESS

A Home For The Bellefonte Girls To Have a Social Time

REV. EDWIN RICHARDSON

Is To Be Given The Credit For This Great Work That Has Been So Successfully Started In Bellefonte.

MAY IT REACH OUT AND DO GOOD.

Shortly after taking charge of the Parish last September the Rector was made aware of the existence of a serious social problem raised by the fact that the streets of the town were crowded in the evening by a mixed army of boys and girls, young men and women, of which the 8:16 p. m. train on the Penn. R. R. was the storm centre.

After a quiet investigation continued for months during which period he visited that train 27 times, he conferred first with a number of the representative men of the town, and later, at the suggestion of Mrs. John P. Harris, President of the W. C. T. U. and others to meet a group of the representative women of the borough in Petriken Hall Thursday afternoon Feburary 14th and made known to them some of the results obtained in those investigation. After sufficient discussion it was argued to ascertain whether it would be possible at this time to start a Young Women's Club with the hope of ameliorating some of the known deplorable conditions in the social life of the town.

Mrs. Harris on motion nominated as a Committee of Information concerning rooms and arrangements, Mrs. E. J. Wilkinson, Mrs. G. F. Harris, Mrs. Ellis Orvis, Mrs. A. Allison Miss Mary Blanchard and the result proves the apparently impromptu naming to have been almost inspired since a more representative, wise, discreet and well balanced Committee could not be found in the whole borough.

Meanwhile the writer arranged with the authorities of the factories, laundries, hotels and many shops of the town for a five minutes talk with the girls to learn whether they would use rooms if they could be found furnished and placed at their disposal as an experiment free of charge for three months, and being satisfied that the young women of Bellefonte were ready and desirous for a Club he left personally at the residence of each minister in the town or sent by mail a signed notice asking for a mass meeting of all women interested in the movement Thursday afternoon Feburary 28th in Petrikin Hall. Some 40 ladies were in attendance a part of the first talk was repeated, additional facts showing the necessity of some such movement was presented and after discussion it was agreed to make the experiment for three months as rooms heat and light had been generously offered free of cost for that period.

The writer had drawn up and headed a subscription paper which was placed in charge of Mrs E. H. B. Calloway who kindly consented to act as collector and solicitor, and $110 was pledged at that meeting which sum has since been increased to over $270 by subsequent generous subscriptions so that enough money for the experimental period has been pledged.

The committee elected Miss Mary Blanchard as Treasurer. The meeting then agreed unanimously that the Committee of information should be the Committee in charge of the Young Women's Club as their represeativsnt and any one who wishes to help is, as a matter of courtesy and propriety expected to present the plan and method to that Committee before suggesting the matter in any fashion to the young ladies who use the rooms and their furnishings.

This splendid Committee immediately went so vigorously to work that by March 15th all things were ready, and on March 12th the writer personally distributed more than 600 of the following explanatory circulars to all the girls engaged in factories, hotels, laundries and most of shops in the town.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

The women of the borough have arranged some reading, amusement and rest rooms for the young women of Bellefonte, over sixteen, all of whom are cordially invited to make use of them at pleasure.

Through the courtesy of Col. W. F. Reynolds the spacious third floor of No. 8, Allegheny St, entrance between the Index and Knisely's has been offered, rent free, for three months, while the Gas and Steam Heat Company and the Bellefonte Electric Co., have kindly promised free heat and light for the same period.

The reading room will have the Bellefonte papers, weeklies and magazines, also desks and all necessary writing material. The rest room will be comfortably furnished for repose, while the amusement room will be supplied with games and a piano.

Occasionally there will be a sociable or entertainment.

The rooms will be open daily, including Sunday, from 10 in the morning till 10 in the evening.

At the end of three months experiment the club will be organized on a permanent basis provided a sufficient number of young women find it helpful and will use its advantages.

It will be open Friday evening, March 15th, at 8 o'clock, when light refreshments will be served, after which there will be opportunity to look over the rooms and arrangements.

Every young woman in Bellefonte over sixteen is cordially invited to come to that entertainment.

Committee.

Bellefonte, March 12th, 1907.

The opening was entirely informal and the writer as natural host and sponsor of the movement engaged Ceader to serve the refreshments so that no one save his employees, had any work to do or dishes to remove and wash.

In a three minutes informal talk the 35 young ladies who attended were cordially welcomed in the name of the women of the borough who favored the movement. It was announced that the Club was undenominational and non-sectarian being at present neither religious nor ethical in its aims, but purely social and humanitarian. And as during the experimental period there is to be neither organization officers nor members so neither are there any rules or restrictions, but every young woman who uses the rooms is simply put upon honor to do what is right, and after a three weeks trial it is a privilege to record that no one has disappointed the just expectations of the Committee in charge.

The rooms are used morning afternoon and evening by an increasing number of young women of the borough and country side, and it is gratifying to know that the movement seems to have secured the cordial support and endorsement of the best people in Bellefonte, while many girls have expressed their gratitude for the privileges so generously placed at their disposal. The writer meets the Committee once a week at the residence of Mrs. Wilkinson to discuss the problems that naturally and necessarily arise, and the results of these conferences are posted in type written notices on the walls of the rooms. A cordial invitation to all the women of the borough to visit the apartments is hereby extended.

MISS ARMOR AND MR. LUTZ MARRIED.

Father McArdle Joins Them Together For Life.

On Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock Miss May Armor of Axe Mann was united in marriage to Mr. Harry W. Lutz of Bellefonte. Father McArdle of the St. John's Catholic Church said the words at the Parrish house that made this happy young couple man and wife. After the ceremony they were driven to the brides home at Axe Mann where the bridal party partook of a royal wedding dinner.

When they arrived at the station they were met by a host of their friends who showered them with rice and old shoes. They left on the 8:16 train east for Philadelphia, Washington and Atlantic City, where they will enjoy their honeymoon in perfect bliss.

Both young people are well and favorable known in Bellefonte and have many friends. Mr. Lutz is an industrious, ambitious young man and will make a good substantion husband who will be as true as steel, and Miss Armor is a young lady fully conversant with the duties of a good wife and will make a splendid helpmate through life. Mr. Lutz is an old Company B boy and it is a good thing the affair was quiet as the boys would have been delighted to haul him around town in a cab and perhaps made him sing or make a speech on the diamond. At any rate they didn't know of it, and they all join in with the writer and wish them both happiness and joy through this life.

MISS DEITZ STAMP CLERK

Miss Phoebe Dietz was Offically Notified on Tuesday

OF HER APPOINTMENT

This District Embraces Centre Clinton Lycoming Potter and Northumberland Counties. Now Over Sixty Other Applicants.

THE OFFICE IS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE

Miss Phoebe Dietz Tuesday was officially notified by G. T. Davis, collector of internal revenue at Scranton, of her appointment as deputy collector of internal revenue for the Twelfth district of Pennsylvania, embracing the counties of Clinton, Lycoming, Centre, Potter and part of Northumberland, to succeed Clay McCormick, who performed the duties after the death of his father, the late S. M. McCormick, esq., who filled the position for a goodly number of years. The office is in the classified civil service, and Miss Dietz successfully passed the examination, that she took at Wilkesbarre, February 20, in competition with over sixty other applicants. Clay McCormick was not an applicant for the position and did not take the examination, as he intends engaging in other pursuits.

MICHAEL CORMAN DEAD.

Prominent Citizen of Zion Passed to His Reward Friday Morning

Michael Corman perhaps one of the best known farmers in Centre county died very suddenly at his beautiful country home near Zion Friday morning at 7.30.

Last Saturday he complained of not being well, but nothing unusual was thought of his illness until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock when he had a stroke of appopley and from that time until he passed away he remained in an unconscious condition.

Michael Corman was a most excellent citizen, highly respected among his fellowmen. He was an active worker in any cause that was pertaining in assisting and furthering the farmers. He will be greatly missed among his agricuturial friends. Mr. Corman was the possessor of several magnificent farms down Nittany Valley and the one he lived in was considered one of the best in the county.

Although always active with his duties on his several farms. Mr. Corman never forgot that above all he owed his wordly possession to his God, And that his first duty was to give Him the credit and praise. He was certainly a God fearing man, and took an active interest in church matters. He was a consistant member of the St. John's Reformed church of Zion. Michael Corman was about 57 years of age, he leaves to mourn his death his loving wife Anna, and the following children, William H., Harvey E., Kyle, John and Cora. He also leaves the following brothers, Emanuel. Albert, Nathan, Benjamin, John and William.

The funeral occured on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Services at the home, Rev. Schmidt of Bellefonte officiating. Interment at Zion.

O'Neil—Potter.

The wedding of Chauncey O'Neil, of Sewickely, and Miss Louise French Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Potter, of Baltimore, was a most elaborate affair. The ceremony took place at a late hour Wednesday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church of that city, and was witnessed by several hundred guests. The officiating minister was Rev. John Timothy Stone. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an exquisite gown of white satin, trimmed with point lace; her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley and gardenias. She was attended by Miss Thomazine L. Potter, of Bellefonte, as maid of honor, who wore a pink radium silk gown and carried pink sweet peas. The six bridesmaids wore pink silk voile gowns over pink silk, and carried large bouquets of pink and lavender sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil will make their home in Sewickley.

AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Ninty Six Have Joined in Eleven Months Dr. Platts Work Being Blessed

The Presbyterian Church held its spring Communion service Sunday morning, and it was one of the most delightful of recent yeare. An especially pleasant feature of the service was the presence of the Rev. J. H. Barnard, D. D., who was pastor of the church forty years ago. He gave the Sacramental Address, which could not fail to bring a blessing to every one who heard it. The following had been received by the Session into the membership of the church since the January Communion. On Confession of Faith:

Edward A. Nolan, Mrs. Blanche A. Nolan, Ralph L. Mallory, Mrs. Mame Mallory, Geo. W. Hollabaugh, Elliott L. Hollabaugh, Harold L. Hollabaugh, Reuben M. Kaup, Leroy A. Hogarth, Miss Marjorie Lyon, Miss C. Helen Martin, Miss Helen I. From.

By Letter.

Miss Agnes Orbison, Am. Pres. church Saharanpur, India; John P. Lyon, and Mrs. Eleanor Lyon, Spruck Creek Pres. church; Mrs. Amy Prince Potter, 1st Pres. church Crafton, Pa.; Miss Eleanor V. Harris, Brown Mem. church Baltimore; Mrs. S. V. Hughes, Miss Margaret Hughes, Arthur Hughes, Merrill, Wis.

This addition to the membership makes 96 who have joined the church since Dr. Platts came to the pastorate eleven months ago. Of these, 78 have joined on Confession of Faith, and 19 by letter. Fifty-five of the number are adults, 33 are heads of families, and the remaining 41 are of the young people of the community. At the evening service Dr. Barnard preached a most remarkable sermon, with all the fire and enthusiasm of forty years ago. No one will soon forget the pleasures of such a day.

DEATH OF MRS. KLING.

Passed to her Reward on Friday Morning at Dawn.

A great many times we have visited the Kling home near Jacksonville and have always found peace, joy and happiness reigning supreme. But today it is filled with sadness, as the mother has been called suddenly away to that home that God has prepared for her in Heaven.

The mother has been taken and oh, what a vacancy there will be, she was so good, kind, and considerate, she was the nearest and dearest person on earth.

Mrs. Kling was a woman of rare culture and refinement, the highest ideals of her life were centered in her home. She was a faithful loving mother whose memory will be a blessing to her children. As a neighbor she was kind and helpful and will be greatly missed in the community. When a young girl she united with the Lutheran church and has always lived according to that faith.

The cause of Mrs. Klings death was due to an attack of pneumonia accompanied by a complication of other diseases. For ten days she was a most patient sufferer, and when the end came it was peaceful and quiet, for she was perfectly confident that her Master would be with her through all.

Mrs. Alice Markle Kling was the wife of Joel Kling, she was born at Hublersburg and was about 69 years of age. She leaves the following loved one to mourn her death: Joel Kling (her husband) Mrs. George Erply, Mrs Rose Yearick, Mrs. Gertrude Yearick, of Jacksonville; Mrs. Blanche Mattern, of Scotia; Newton of Scottdale; Elmer, Oscar, Percy of Altoona; Calvin of Salona; Samuel and Kathrine at home.

Funeral occurred on Monday morning, at 10 o'clock. Rev. Crow of Hublersburg will officiate.

Soon Ready for the Blast.

The Nittany Iron company is fast getting things in shape to put their plant in operation again. If everything goes along all right the interior fire wall will be completed by tomorrow night or Monday and they expect to be in shape to start the fires not later than the fifteenth of the mounth. This is sooner than was anticipated when the gas explosion put the furnace out of business six weeks ago. But they were very fortunate in being able to remove most of the filling in the furnance with nothing more than pick and shovel. This was the case with all save one big lump of cinder and iron, weighing over nine tons. It was so hard that fourteen sticks of dynamite put off on top of it failed to make any impression and it had to be removed by hoisting it out with chain and tackle. It was then swung onto a flat car, hauled out and thrown on a cinder dump.

WANTED—AN APOLOGY.

By Henry Abbott.

Copyright, 1907, by May McKeon.

Gadsby Jones was a peppery man of about fifty years who lived in the village of Hornsdale. It was well known to all the inhabitants that he was peppery and carried a chip on his shoulder, and they took good care not to stir him up. In the village of Winston, four miles away, there lived another peppery man about the same age. His name was Talbot, and he was so touchy that he had to be handled with gloves. These two peppery old men had known each other by name for ten years before they were introduced. Mr. Jones happened to be over at Winston one day, and while at the hotel Mr. Talbot came in. They were rather chary of each other for awhile, instinctively scenting danger, but when that feeling had finally worn off a bit the peppery Mr. Jones remarked:

"It's my opinion, from what I have seen so far this season, that we are going to have a plague of tater bugs. I shouldn't wonder if we lost the whole crop."

"Well, I dunno," replied the peppery Mr. Talbot. "In my opinion all the indications point to a return of the grasshoppers."

"I differ with you, sir."

"And I differ with you."

"There isn't the slightest indication of grasshoppers."

"Nor the slightest indication of tater bugs."

"You seem, sir, to be a conceited man."

"And I wouldn't guarantee that you had an ounce of brains."

"I demand an apology at once!"

"And I demand the same!"

As neither would apologize, they separated in a spirit of bitterness. As they lived four miles from each other and as they had managed to get along fairly well for years without knowing each other, their feelings would have made no difference but for one thing. Gadsby Jones had a son twenty years old, and Mr. Talbot had a daughter nineteen. The young people had met and admired each other before the meeting of their fathers, and the fact was dimly known to their respective parents. When Mr. Talbot went home from the hotel it was to say to his daughter:

"I HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING OF THEM GRASSHOPPERS YET."

"Ruth, are you acquainted with young Jones of Hornsdale?"

"Why, yes, I have met him," admitted Ruth, with a blush.

"Then don't meet him any more. He's a horse thief."

"Why, father, how you talk!"

"That is to say, his father is the biggest old fool in the state, and I'm sorry now that I didn't call him a liar. If I catch the son hanging around here I shall kick him out in short order."

And Gadsby Jones returned to Hornsdale, getting madder every rod of the way, to say to his son:

"Homer, do you know a girl over at Winston named Talbot?"

"Talbot? Talbot?" mused the young man as he tried to appear indifferent.

"Yes, sir, Talbot. Seems to me I heard you say you took her to the circus."

"Oh, yes, Ruth Talbot."

"Well, you drop her like a hot tater. I met her father over there today, and of all the cantankerous old cusses I ever ran up against he takes the cake. He owes me an apology, and until he makes it no son of mine can enter his house."

The son and daughter could not look upon the matter as the two fathers did, and neither of them felt obliged to obey the parental injunction. While they did not openly defy it, they continued to meet at intervals, and admiration and friendship finally ripened into love. In this they were secretly supported by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Talbot. The two peppery old men, who had lived for fifty years without knowing each other's existence, seemed fated to meet at intervals after their disagreement. Within a month both found themselves at the same blacksmith shop to have repairs made to their buggies, and, after glaring and snorting at each other for a time, Mr. Jones sarcastically said:

"I haven't seen anything of them grasshoppers yet."

"They are probably waiting to come along with your tater bugs."

"Um! Mr. Talbot, if that is your name, I pity the folks in this village who have to put up with your ways."

"Um! Mr. Jones, and that is undoubtedly your name, for I never saw a Jones who didn't look like a mean man. If I was you, I'd go hang myself and let my town take a rest."

"Apologize, sir! Apologize at once!"

"Not until you apologize first."

They met again on the highway and again at a funeral and a town meeting, and each meeting made them long to kill each other. The son and the daughter were forbidden under all sorts of pains and penalties even to bow to each other, but their lovemaking could not be stopped by such edicts. There was no question of love, but that of marriage was held in abeyance in hopes that their respective fathers might undergo a change of opinion. A mutual friend undertook to bring this about. He called upon the peppery Mr. Jones first. He started out with a lot of sweet oil, but he hadn't talked over half a minute when Mr. Jones interrupted with:

"That will do, sir. A year ago I told that old fool of a Talbot that it looked like a good year for tater bugs, and he up and insulted me."

"But there were no tater bugs last year."

"Makes no difference. I have met him two or three times since, and I tell you he is a cantankerous old reprobate. If he's going to continue living in the state, I'll get out of it."

Nothing could be done with the peppery Mr. Jones, and so the mutual friend tried the peppery Mr. Talbot. He had only stated his errand when the latter shouted out:

"Stop, sir! I do not want that man's name mentioned in my presence! If ever there was an obstinate old fool who needed to be kicked from here to Hornsdale, he is the one. He owes me an apology, and I shall insist that he get down on his knees to make it. Be friends with Jones—J-o-n-e-s! You don't know me, sir!"

But yet things were working. Providence or something else always seeks to bring things out right in case of true love. One day a party of people living in Winston went out to a huckleberry swamp to gather berries, and the peppery Mr. Talbot went with them. On the same day a party from Hornsdale visited the same swamp, and the peppery Mr. Jones was among them. The two parties kept separate for some hours, and they had only drifted together when a thunderstorm came up. At the same time a messenger arrived from Winston with the news that the young couple had gone off and been married. The people had to seek the shelter of the trees, and it so happened that the two peppery old men found themselves side by side.

"I will never recognize the marriage!" exclaimed Mr. Jones as he found himself face to face with his enemy.

"Nor I either!"

"Your daughter plotted to trap my son."

"'Tis false, sir! It was right the other way."

They would probably have kept on quarreling for the next half hour, but a thunderbolt shot out of the black cloud and struck the tree underneath which they were standing. Five people were knocked senseless and continued in that state for a quarter of an hour. Then the two peppery old men recovered consciousness, sat up and looked at each other.

"Talbot, where are we?" slowly asked Jones.

"In heaven, Jones."

"Were we killed by lightning?"

"We must have been."

"Well, as we are in heaven and the children married, I don't want to carry no grudge against you. I'm willing to apologize if you are."

"Well, I'm sorry."

"So'm I."

Of course they found out later on that they were no nearer heaven than the huckleberry swamp, and of course there was a little humiliation on the part of both, but, like sensible men, they buried the hatchet and rode home together to congratulate the happy couple.

The Value of Time.

The hours of a wise man are lengthened by his ideas as those of a fool are by his passions. The time of the one is long because he does not know what to do with it. So is that of the other, because he distinguishes every moment of it with useful or amusing thoughts, or, in other words, because the one is always wishing it away and other is always enjoying it. We all of us complain of the shortness of time, saith Seneca, and yet have much more than we know what to do with. Though we seem grieved at the shortness of life in general, we are wishing every period of it at an end. The minor longs to be of age, then to be a man of business, then to retire. Thus, although the whole life is allowed by every one to be short, the several divisions of it appear long and tedious.—Addison.

Tipping the Cook.

In old times to dine with a nobleman cost more in tips to the servants than a club dinner. Lord Poor, a well named Irish peer, excused himself from dining with the Duke of Ormond upon the ground that he could not afford it. "If you will give me the guinea I have to pay your cook, I will come as often as you choose to ask me"—which was accordingly done. The duke, however, had not the pluck to stop the tipping practice. Lord Taafe, a general officer in the Austrian service, did what he could. He always attended his guests to the door. When they put their hands into their pockets he said: "No. If you do give it, give it to me, for it was I who paid for your dinner." To Sir Timothy Waldo must be given the credit of putting an end to the monstrous practice. After dinner with the Duke of Newcastle he put a crown into the cook's hand. It was rejected. "I do not take silver, sir." "Very good. And I do not give gold." This courageous rejoinder "caught on," and the day of vails to cooks was over.—St. James' Gazette.

Taking the Initiative.

There is a certain satisfaction in taking the enemy unawares on his own ground, in downing him with his own weapons. President Polk evidently took comfort in his method for mitigating the hand shake, that curse of the chief executive office, and he must have chuckled when he wrote in his diary the bit which is given in James Schouler's "Historical Briefs:"

If a man surrendered his arm to be shaken by one horizontally, by another perpendicularly and by another with a strong grip, he could not fail to suffer severely by it. But if he would shake and not be shaken, grip and not be gripped, taking care always to squeeze the hand of his adversary as hard as the adversary squeezed him, he would suffer no inconvenience by it. I can generally anticipate a strong grip from a strong man. I take advantage of him by being quicker than he and seizing him by the tips of his fingers. This is stated playfully, but it is all true.

Former Instruments of Torture.

Instead of gymnastics or games, instruments of torture were used for modeling the figure of the young lady of 1831. An English writer of that year says that "could the modern schoolroom be preserved it would pass for a refined inquisition. There would be found stocks for the fingers (the cheiroplast) and pulleys for the neck, with weights attached." Fanny Kemble, to whom nature had been by no means unkindly, was found wanting in deportment, and she writes that she wore a "back board made of steel, covered with red morocco, which consisted of a flat piece placed on my back and strapped down to my waist with a belt and secured at the top by two epaulets strapped over my shoulders. From the middle of this there rose a steel rod or spine with a steel collar, which encircled my throat, fastened behind." The machine proved a failure, and she was put under the tuition of a drill sergeant, who did for her all that was required.—"Social England."

Four Bad Snakes.

Snakes are much maligned creatures, although they are, for the most part, of considerable value to man, as they live almost entirely on insects and the small rodents that are injurious to crops. Of all the snakes that inhabit North America there are really only four that are dangerous. These are the copperhead, the moccasin, the rattlesnake and a little snake of southern Georgia and Florida known as the coral snake. Of course there are a number of different species of the rattler (about thirty), but they inhabit different parts of the country and are all to be known from the fact that they "rattle" when approached. All the rest of our snakes are absolutely harmless, and their bite is to be less feared than that of a mosquito.—Scrap Book.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

A Remarkable Church.

A small watering place in Austria named Eichwald can boast of possessing a most remarkable church. It was first built by an Italian architect at Venice at the expense of Prince Carlos Clary-Aldringen, a great admirer of Italian architecture. When it was finished, the church was taken to pieces again and packed in thousands of numbered cases for transportation to Eichwald. At this place in Austria it was eventually rebuilt and then made over to the inhabitants as a free gift from the prince.

The Reason For It.

"No," said the imbittered person, "when I want financial assistance I go to strangers. I do not ask friends or relatives."

"Well," answered the logical man, "maybe that's the best way. Friends and relatives are in a position to keep posted on a man's record."—Washington Star.

We're All Leather Eaters.

"And then," said the arctic explorer, "I ate my leather belt."

"Pooh, what of that? Every mother's son of us eats a pair of shoes a year."

The explorer frowned. "This," he began, "is no laughing"—

But the scientist interrupted him. "I am not jesting, sir. I speak the solemn truth. What is leather? Is it not albumen and tannin? Well, when you add milk to your tea or coffee, the tannin of the one and the albumen of the other unite, and leather results. The leather is in minute particles. Nevertheless it is there. And down it goes. All who drink tea or coffee daily," the scientist concluded, "consume in a year enough leather to make a pair of shoes."

The explorer sneered. "To resume," he said, "I then ate the lining of," etc.—Exchange.

Ahead, Yet Behind.

The nervous foreigner got up and went back to the conductor of the street car.

"Pardong, m'sieur," said he, "but zee car, he run so slow, and why, if you pleeze? Ees it not so?"

"Yep," replied the conductor. "We can't help it, though. You see, the car ahead is behind."

The foreigner's eyes opened wider. "Would you mind saying him again?" he asked apologetically.

"I say," replied the conductor, louder than before, "that the car ahead is behind. See?"

The foreigner returned to his seat. "Zee car-r-r ahead, he ees behind?" said he to himself. "Most wonderful, most astonishing is zis country!"—Judge.

Her First Birth.

Black Sarah was busily employed about our northern kitchen, remarked a prominent housekeeper, when I had occasion to go out there and by way of being pleasant said:

"You are from the south, are you not, Sarah?"

"Law, yes, miss!" was the answer.

"Born in the south?" I continued.

"Originally bawn in Richmond, miss," was the astonishing reply.—Reader Magazine.

Her Fear.

A little girl remarked to her mother, "I am not afraid in the dark."

"Of course not," said the mother.

"I was afraid once, though, when I went into the pantry to get a tart," she added.

"What were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid I would not find the tarts," was the reply.

No Need to Cry.

"Don't cry, Buster," said Jack after the catastrophe. "Napoleon didn't cry every time his brother hit him accidentally on the eye."

"I know that," retorted Buster. "Napoleon did all the hittin' on the eye hisself."

"Where do you suppose that squall is coming from?" asked the amateur yachtsman. "I don't know," replied the head of a small but obstreperous family, "unless it is coming from the cradle of the deep."—Baltimore American.

Life Guards.

The Life Guards are two regiments of cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements, as colds, influenza, catarrh, the grip, and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the system the greater the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

ALL DRUGGISTS: 50c. AND $1.00

of the day, made entirely of native medicinal roots and without a drop of alcohol in its composition, is known as

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

There are no secrets about its composition --- all its ingredients being printed on the bottle-wrappers.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only builds up the strength of the feeble, debilitated, languid, nervous and easily fatigued, whether young or aged, but it enriches and purifies the blood, thus making the improvement lasting.

It corrects and overcomes indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, torpid liver, chronic diarrhea and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Bronchial, throat and laryngeal affections, attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, and all manner of catarrhal affections are cured by the "Golden Medical Discovery."

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the nasal passages out freely with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" as a constitutional treatment. Old obstinate cases of catarrh yield to this thorough course of treatment.

Through enriching and purifying the blood, the "Discovery" cures scrofulous affections, also blotches, pimples, eruptions, and other ugly affections of the skin. Old, open, running sores, or ulcers, are healed by taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" internally and applying Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local dressing. The Salve can be had of druggists, or will be sent by return mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address Doctor Pierce as below for it.

In short "Golden Medical Discovery" regulates, purifies and invigorates the whole system and thus cures a very large range of diseases. The reason Why it cures such a varied list of diseases is made clear in a little booklet of extracts from the leading medical authorities, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and which he will be pleased to send post-paid and entirely free to any who send him their names and addresses.

You can't afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules — easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to cover cost of mailing) for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Lamb's Unkind Thrust.

Charles Lamb, than whom no gentler or kinder hearted wit ever breathed, at times found it impossible to restrain himself from the personal, as for instance, when he covered a friend with shame at a whist party by blurting out:

"Gad, James, if—if dirt were t-t-trumps, what a hand you would have!"

The Truth About Gossip.

"Pull" the New Society Game.

Though many ardent bridge players are reserving their decision as to the merits of the new pastime, a little game called "pull" has caught society's fancy on the other side of the ocean, so it seems to find adherents in this democratic land, says the New York Press. It is two handed whist, and it comes in handy when enough time killers cannot be found to get up a real game. It is surprising how heavy the gambling may be even with only two persons at a table.

Beggars and Weather.

"What weather is best for our business? Why, winter weather," said the beggar. "Sure, winter makes people generous to the poor. In summer people have an idea that everybody can get along somehow. It's warm then, you know, and they think the poor won't suffer anyway. But the colder the weather the warmer it makes people's hearts, and the more they give then in some ways. The one drawback to my particular line of business in winter is that in cold weather everybody goes about in the streets with gloves on and overcoat buttoned up, and men that would put down their names for a good sum on a subscription list indoors, where they could give it in comfort, are not so ready to drag off their gloves and drag open their coats and go down in their jeans for a nickel out of doors. Even with this drawback, and it's a big one, I do better in winter than in summer. But if it wasn't for that in winter I'd get rich."—New York Sun.

Long Distance Skee Races.

As a test of skill, strength and endurance it would be difficult to beat the long distance skee races in Norway and Sweden. Of these contests the most severe is undoubtedly the twelve mile race over the mountains which opens the great annual "Snow Derby" at Holmenkollen, about four miles from Christiania. In this race, which begins with a steep ascent of 400 to 500 feet, the skee lobner has to jump clefts and ravines, to hop over fallen tree trunks and overcome every kind of obstacle that man can devise; to rush down steep declivities and to make his devious way through mountain forests until he reaches the goal, triumphant, but utterly exhausted. Considering the arduous nature of these contests, some of the performances are remarkable. Thus the winner of an international speed competition held at Stockholm covered the course of forty miles at an average speed of eight and one-half miles an hour.

DIVIDING THE REWARD.

By Henry Stroule.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Bertha looked up in dismay as the stranger entered. Kenton City was not so far ahead of a frontier town that holdups were absolutely unknown, and the sudden appearance of this brawny intruder did not suggest a peaceful errand.

Tremblingly she made change for the fifty dollar gold certificate he handed her after deliberately testing its genuineness and pushed the little pile of bills toward him.

"Aren't you rather young to be left in charge of a bank?" he asked as he deposited the change in his wallet. "I supposed that three or four men were the usual crew, not a little girl."

"I am not a little girl," she said indignantly. "I'm nineteen, and I guess this will help me out."

"This" was a huge revolver, and as she held it toward him he noticed that it trembled in her uncertain grasp. "I'm satisfied," he said, with a laugh. "Please put it down."

"I guess there's no one going to rob this bank even if there is only a girl in charge," she said defiantly. "Anyhow, father and the cashier will be back from lunch shortly."

"They lunch rather late here," was the significant retort as he glanced at the clock. "Three o'clock lunches are rather rare in Kenton City, are they not?"

Bertha's heart sank. So he must know that her father was ill in bed and that the cashier, the only other official of the bank, had gone over to the railroad. Perhaps he knew also that in the vaults were the payrolls of the two mines which made the First National a financial possibility.

"We were busy this morning," she stammered. "I guess pa will get back soon."

"I want to see him a moment," was the quiet response. "With your permission, I guess I'll wait."

"Perhaps," she suggested, "he may stay home. I don't know. He said

HE HAD WHIPPED OUT A REVOLVER AND HAD THE OTHER COVERED.

something this morning about wanting to see to some things about the house."

"I'll wait around for awhile," he said, with a smile. "I have plenty of time, and with pleasant company"— He bowed courteously to Bertha.

"I can't put you out," she said, with a toss of her head.

"If I intrude," he suggested, "I can put myself out."

This was just what Bertha did not want. If he was planning to rob the vaults and was waiting until his confederates came up, there was a chance that some one might come in before then who could help her secure him. He answered to the description of Butte Bill, who led a gang of cutthroats and whose picture adorned a handbill posted on the inner side of the wire screen. She hastened to make pleasant reply, and presently she had forgotten the character of her visitor in the charm of his conversation.

Robber he might be, but he was certainly a most charming fellow and had traveled far. He soon had her so interested in his tales of "back east," that promised land of which she had heard so much and seen nothing at all, that she was sorry when at last the clock chimed 4 and she was forced to rouse herself and announce that it was time to close the doors.

"I've enjoyed our little visit immensely," he said, with a smile. "I am sorry that it must be interrupted. I hope to see you again. May I suggest that you be careful to see that the vaults are securely locked? You see, I hear that there is a gang of desperadoes in these parts, and it would be well not to put temptation in their way."

Bertha glanced at the "$5,000 Reward" on the circular and made up her mind. Butte must not be permitted to escape. She caught up the gun from its position on the shelf and slipped out of the cage. There was an opening in the counter near the front door, and just as she reached it she whipped out her gun.

"Put up your hands," she commanded. "You didn't know it, but I had your picture there on a handbill."

His hands had gone above his head at the first command, and now he towered above her, still smiling.

"There is some mistake," he said. "If you will kindly turn aside my coat you will find a detective's star there that should vouch for me."

He approached as though to permit her to carry out his request, but she retreated before him.

"Not much," she declared. "That would give you a splendid chance to overpower me. You keep your distance."

"But I can't hold my hands over my head all night," he pleaded. "What are you going to do with me?"

"Some one will come for me if I do not go home," she explained. "You won't have to wait for more than an hour."

The intruder groaned. "You don't suppose that I can keep my arms in the air that long, do you?" he demanded. "I'd rather have you shoot."

"I will if you come any closer," she warned. He stepped back, and for ten minutes he looked eagerly out of the door. Then he gave a cry, and with a sigh of relief Bertha turned her head to greet the newcomer.

For an instant she gasped, for the newcomer's arms went above his head promptly, and his revolver went clattering to the ground. In general appearance he was the double of her first visitor, though he lacked the frankness, expression and genial lines about the eyes.

His action reminded her of her captive, and she turned. To her surprise he had whipped out a revolver and had the other covered.

"Will you oblige me by feeling in my coat and taking out a pair of handcuffs you will find there?" he asked.

Bertha drew out the glistening bracelets and snapped them about the newcomer's wrists. Then the other man came forward, and with the heavy leather belt he wore about his waist he fastened his victim's feet.

"This is Butte Bill," he explained as he dragged his captive to a chair. "There are probably two others of the gang waiting outside. You stand over him and shoot him if he attempts to get away. "I'll see if I can round up the others."

Depriving the bandit of his weapons, the stranger slipped out. Presently there was a sound of firing, then a silence. The girl and the man in the bank stirred uneasily. Bill was anxious as to the fate of his accomplices, and Bertha felt an unaccountable strong interest in the welfare of the stranger.

The minutes that sped by seemed like hours until, with a whoop, a crowd burst into the bank and relieved her of her guard duty. The stranger was in the van, a bloody handkerchief wrapped about his left hand and a thin stream of blood trickling down the side of his face.

"I'm not hurt," he aid, with a laugh, as he saw her look of dismay—"just a scratch on the head and a ball through the palm."

"The sheriff can take care of these men," she said. "Come home with me and let me fix you up."

Rapidly she closed the vaults and led him down the street to the little home where her first aid to the injured had more than once gained her the title of "the little doctor."

Over the bandaging he told her that he was a railroad detective looking for some car thieves and that one of the Butte band had mistaken him for the leader and had uncovered the bank plot to him. He had seen a chance to earn the reward, and so he had sought an excuse for lingering around the bank until the desperado had put in an appearance.

"I did not want to alarm you," he explained, "so I said nothing, though if I had had my hands in the air much longer I should have had to speak in self defense."

"And I thought I was earning the reward," she laughed.

"You did," he insisted.

"Not at all," she contradicted.

"Then half," he pleaded.

She shook her head, and it was six weeks later before Greg Hallett's hand healed and they effected a compromise. Then they used the reward for the honeymoon.

The Value of an Opinion.

One of the most discouraging features in the case of the young man who stays at home is the fact that, no matter what he may do, he seldom is given credit. If he takes his father's business and makes it go big, everybody gives the credit to the father. I know of one case in a small western city. A merchant who had been considered wealthy and prominent died and left everything to his son. The boy had been away from home for three years and was doing fairly well in a strange city without relying upon paternal assistance. He returned and took hold of the business. To his surprise, he found conditions rotten. Beyond the good will the assets scarcely would cover the liabilities. He dug in, worked desperately and in two years' time had things straightened out and was on the highroad to prosperity. A sudden business collapse in the town, followed by a bank crash, caught him hard, and he was forced to assign. He paid dollar for dollar, yet today in that town they point him out as a man who wrecked his father's business.—Jonas Howard in Chicago Tribune.

"That's a fancy suit you have on," remarked the visitor in the dressing tent of the big circus.

"Yes," laughed the acrobat who jumps over six elephants every performance; "I call that my spring suit."—Chicago News.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of ediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Bellefonte proof.

Mrs. Nancy Davis, of 246 East Logan Street, says: "I suffered a bad fall some years ago when living n Rochester. I thought at first that I had broken my back. I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. I took only a few doses before I began to feel better and when I had continued using them for a while I was thoroughly cured. My back regained its strength and the pain left me. I have had no return of the trouble since."

Lax-ets 5 c Sweet to Eat

A Candy Bowel Laxative

GREEN'S PHARMACYCO.

Use Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Children like its pleasant taste, and mothers give it hearty endosement. Contains no opiates, but drives out the cold through the bowels. Made in strict conformity to Pure Food and Drugs Law. Recommended and sold by Green's Pharmacy.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture it must be printed on the label or package. For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having D. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison-marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simple refuse to accept any other. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

No one is immune from Kidney trouble, or just remember that Foley's Kidney Cure will stop the irregularities and cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. C. M. Parrish.

—Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

STRONG Again

is what Mrs. Lucy Stovall, of Tilton, Ga., said after taking Kodol for Dyspepsia. Hundreds of other weak women are being restored to perfect health by this remedy. YOU may be well if you will take it.

Indigestion causes nearly all the sickness that women have. It deprives the system of nourishment and the delicate organs peculiar to women suffer — weaken, and become diseased.

Kodol For Dyspepsia

enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. It nourishes the body, and rebuilds the weak organs, restoring health and strength. Kodol relieves indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, sour risings, belching, heartburn and all stomach disorders.

Digests What You Eat

Relieves Indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas, etc.

AMERICAN OFFICERS OF HIGH RANK AND OTHERS ENDORSE PE-RU-NA.

Prominent People Recommend the Remedy Pe-ru-na.

Dr. Hartman's World Renowned Catarrh Medicine.

A Remedy for the Grip.

Gen. W. H. Parsons, 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes as follows:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better by its use for one week only, especially in toning up the stomach, and a consequent decided effect upon my appetite.

"I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her veteran cavalry in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Pe-ru-na a Good Tonic.

Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

"I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved.

"It is indeed a wonderful medicine, and besides a good tonic."

Colds in the Head and Throat.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adjt. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

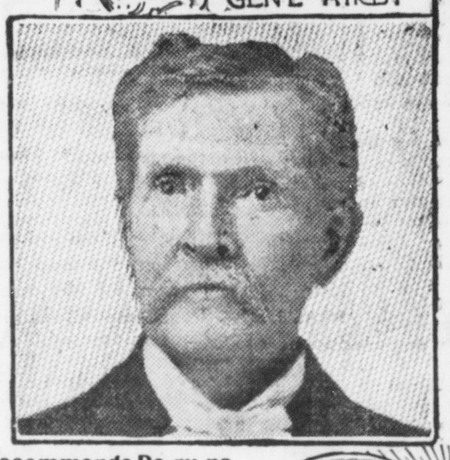
"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat.

"I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions.

"I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments.

"We are recommending it to our friends."



Recommends Pe-ru-na to the Afflicted.

Brig. Gen. D. T. Kirby, Washington, D. C., writes concerning Peruna, as follows:

"Friends of mine having used your Peruna catarrh cure with good results, I am impressed with its curative qualities, and can recommend it to those who are afflicted."

An Invigorating Tonic.

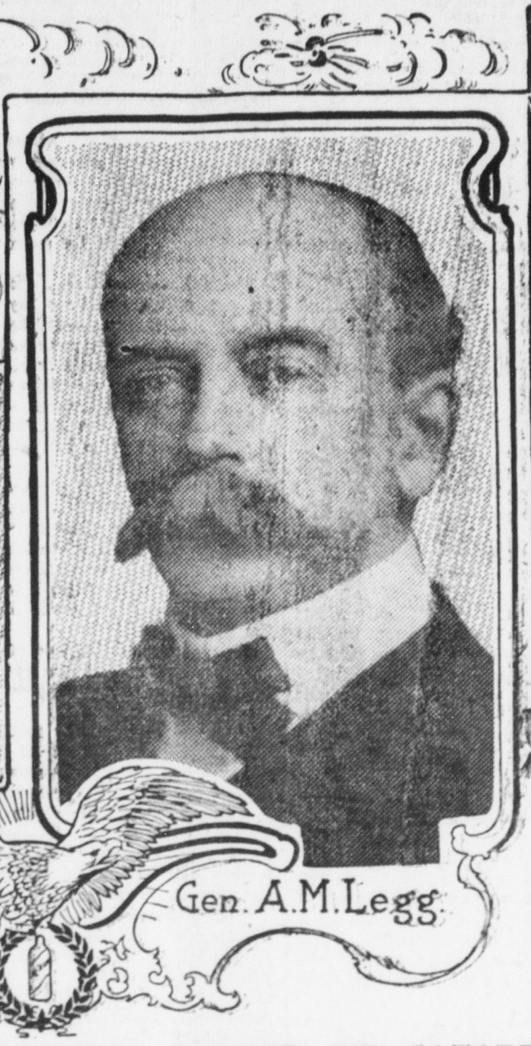
Rear-Admiral Hichborn, U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., writes:

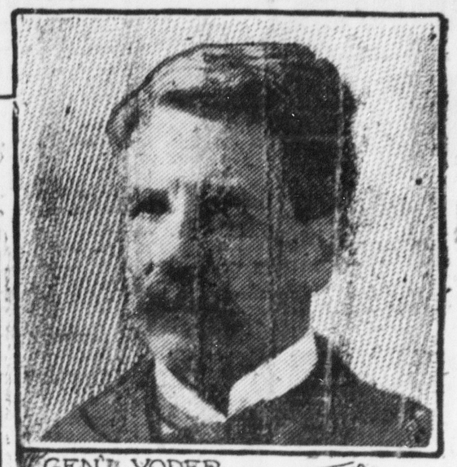
"After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."

For Catarrh of the Stomach.

Gen. W. W. Duffield, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna in my family and have found it a valuable medicine and take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer from catarrh of the stomach or who require a tonic of prompt efficacy."





Used Pe-ru-na—Satisfied As to its Merits —Recommends It to All Sufferers.

Gen. S. S. Yoder, 208 Md. Ave., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I desire to say that I have found Peruna to be a wonderful remedy. I only used it for a short time and am thoroughly satisfied as to its merits. I shall gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

DEAFNESS CAUSED BY CATARRH— RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Gen. A. M. Legg, writes from the Savings Bank Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I take pleasure in endorsing the many recommendations I have heard and read of Peruna, because of having had knowledge of the truth of so many of them.

"We always tell our sick and ailing friends of the remedies that we have learned, from experience, were good for us when ailing in the same way, and we do it as a duty we feel that we owe them.

"Why is it any the less our duty to advise all the people we can when we know of a good and comparatively inexpensive remedy that makes many cures, and benefits in almost all cases?

"My own little personal experience of being relieved of deafness, caused by a siege of catarrh, warrants me in advising all the afflicted to just try Peruna."

For Kidney Trouble, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Gen. A. T. Hawley, 1236 25th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Convinced of Peruna's Merit.

Brig. Gen. J. Floyd King, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I unhesitatingly state that I am convinced Peruna is a medicine which will effect all that is claimed for its use."

Those desirous of obtaining special directions with regard to the use of Peruna should write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

When Other Remedies Failed Pe-ru-na Proved Efficacious.

Hon. Geo. W. Honey, National Chaplain U. V. U., Ex-Chaplain 4th Wisconsin Cavalry, Ex-Treas. State of Wisconsin and Ex-Q. Master General State of Texas, G. A. R., writes from 1700 First street, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in their various forms.

"Some members of my own family have used it with most gratifying results.

"When other remedies failed, Peruna proved most efficacious and I cheerfully certify to its curative excellence."

Pe-ru-na, a Standard Treatment For Catarrhal Diseases.

Mr. John C. Nelson, Dayton, Tenn., geologist and mining engineer, while a Captain in the Federal Army during the Civil War, contracted a case of rheumatism. This malady was constant and persistent, inducing the development of other ailments, which also became chronic. After taking a course of Peruna, Capt. Nelson writes:

"Having been painfully afflicted with chronic rheumatism and the adjunctive complications for many years, and after having received many general and special treatments with only temporary relief, I read your scientific treatise on catarrhal diseases.

"At my request you prescribed a special course of the Peruna remedies, which I closely followed, and am happy to report that my rheumatism and complicated ailments are subdued, and I feel young again at the age of 69 years.

"Reason will accept your classification of catarrhal diseases as scientific and true, and the Peruna remedies as a standard treatment for them. I thank you heartily for your skilled and logical advice."

Enjoys Renewed Health and Strength.

James J. Osborn, 623 Wahsatch Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., has filled all the positions in Knights Templars Masonic Order, was a Mason since 1866, Judge of County Court, Clinton, Mo., and also County Collector of Clinton. He writes:

"A sluggish liver which I had been troubled with for two years made life miserable and I was unable to attend to my business half the time. I lacked energy, had headache most of the time, and my food distressed me and did not seem to do me a particle of good.

"Reading of the many cures performed by Peruna, I decided to try a bottle. Before I had taken many doses I felt better.

"I took it as directed for two months when I was a well man."

CHARLE C. TUTEN,

Willed her Cat to the President.

New York, April 9.—President Roosevelt is the sole beneficiary under the will of Lulu B. Grover, of No. 2089 Lexington avenue, which was filed with the will, and the value of President Roosevelt's bequests are therefore unknown. The main part of the will which is very brief read as follows:

I give to Theodore Roosevelt at my death everything that is mine, household furniture, personal property, jewelry, diamonds, estate, all money in bank to my credit and my cat Snowdrop Low, and everything that is mine. I owe to Theodore Roosevelt a debt greater than I can ever pay in this world, and in this way I wish to show I am not ungrateful. He has been a good angel who spread his wing of shelter o'er my peace through life and was my only true friend in trouble. I gladly give my little all to him and only wish it were millions instead of so small an amount. I hope he will accept it in the spirit I give it and with God's blessing."

It has been announced that President Roosevelt will accept the estate bequeathed to him, and turn it over to some New York charity. The cat is being cared for now under the directions issued by the President.

THE USE AND ABUSE OF SLANG.

Parts Taken from the Sermon Preached by Rev. Edwin Richardson Sunday Morning.

"Do ye imagine to reprove words, and the speeches of one that is desperate, which are as winds?" Job. 6:26.

Of all the wonderful faculties of human nature there is none more marvellous than the ability to talk which reveals what is in a man and also wherein he lacks. Its disclosure of the the inner life and character fills us now with amazement and again with amusement, and it is the characteristic of the human species that most distinctly marks us off from the lower animals, since observation and experiment so far have made it plain that their raised means of communication with one another never rise to the dignity of speach.

We, however, think in words, and therefore language grows continually since new experiences, discoveries, and conditions require new forms of expression. Now slang is one of the processes by which language grows originally the cant of thierie, or "thieries Latin," as Walter Scott called it in "Redgauntlet," it later became the disreputable dialect of a disgraceful class, and then broadened out into a colloquialism. This is its brief history in English and in all known languages ancient and modern. It is in fact, a sort of rough and ready popular idiom before the talk of the folk has crystallized into cultured speech or permanent literature.

Thus it is nothing less than one fertile spring for the renewal of decaying vocabularies. It has been divided into four classes two of which are worthy, while the other two are offensive, of the latter one class consists of survivals of the old thieries Latin with modern additions. This kind of slang was much used by Victor Hugo, especially in Les Miserables, and by Charles Dickens especially in Oliver Twist.

It abounds in Josiah Flints, 'Tramping with Tramps," and also in that remarkable Socialistic book "No 5 John St"

It is heard daily in the slums and police courts, and it crops out in the daily papers in such words as "pal," "core," "hobo" and the like. It is also the ordinary language of criminals and the debased classes and therefore it should always be avoided by those who seek to be children of sweetness and light.

The second class of offensive slang consists of ephemeral, short livid phrases, not foul indeed but foolish exceedingly. For example: The London cads say: "There you go with your eye out," the New York cads "Where did you get that hat?" London says: "How's your poor feet?" New York: "Well, I should smile" or again. "They all got cold feet," indifference. In the former city a four wheel cab is a growler, in the latter a beer can is a growler, and to "rush the growler" means to drink a deal of the products that has made Milwaukee famous.

These flat and foolish phrases change their meaning with the flight of time and change of place and while they are offensive to refined and cultured people they are not so gross as the first class, in them we seem to discern an upward stirring, a yearning to get out of the mire, and a tendency to disinfect themselves.

The third class consists of reputable slang that one may properly on occasion use. This class comprises old and forgotten words and phrases struggling to rise again from the dead and reappear as active participants in the battle of life. Just like individuals, families and nations, words also have their ups or downs, their victories and defeats.

So it appears that many of our ordinary slang words and phrases have an honorable pedigree, and like individuals families, and nations who have fallen from their high esteem, they sometimes when the shock is over, seek to regain their ancient position of honor.

By far the most important is the fourth kind of slang that consists of new words and phrases still on probation. These are the feeders of the national vocabulary ever bringing forward recruits and volunteers to supply the places of words that have been worn out, wounded or slain in the battle of life. Here are a few of these volunteer ready and desirous to take the place of exhausted veterans:

"Moss backs," "to go back on," "to give oneself away," "Stranded" (of a bankrupt theatrical troupe.) Some of these are violent metaphors e. g. "In the soup," "kicking the bucket," "Hold up" (of a train by foot pads.) Many of these will finally be enrolled as passed soldiers in the regular army of accepted speah and writing, and their term of probation or apprenticeship ends when writers and speakers feel that they are adopted as regulars on the sponsorship of good writers or speakers, and many words now secure in their positions through such friendly offices were formerly regarded as interlopers and doubtful reputation.

Episcopal Church Notes.

The plans were adopted for the building of the new Parrish house and the contract for building same was awarded to Mr. Benjamin Bradley.

The annual meeting of the Parish was held on Monday morning after service and the following gentlemen elected Vestrymen of the church, Col. W. Fred Reynolds, Dr. George F. Harris, Mr. Edwin F. Garman, Mr. Joseph L. Montgomery, Dr. J. L. Seibert, Mr. Edward H. Richards, Mr. W. W. Montgomery, Mr Daniel Garman, and Mr. W. S. Zeller. The Rector appointed Col. W. F. Reynolds Senior Warden for one year. Col. Reynolds accepted the office. Dr. George F. Harris was elected Jr. Warden, Mr. W. W. Montgomery Secretary, Mr. Joseph L. Montgomery Acting Secretary, Mr. W. S. Zeller Treasurer, Mr. E. H. Richards and Dr. George F. Harrie were elected delegates to the Diocese convention which meets in Sunbury May 14th 1907, Mr. C. F. Montgomery and Mr. L. T. Munson were elected Alternates to the convention.

Rev. Edwin Richardson will leave Monday for different cities throughout the state in the interest of the Episcopal Churchman a paper published at Harrisburg. He has been sent by Bishop Darlington on this mission and the Bishop will have charge of the church until the Rector returns which will be in about four weeks. On Sunday April 14th Rev. Alden, L. Bennett of Wilkesbarre will preach in the Episcopal church. Rev. Bennett is said to be one of the most brilliant clergymen in the Diocese and no doubt will be received by a large audience when he comes to Bellefonte.

At The Hospital.

Notes from the hospital gathered from friends who have friends at the institution.

Mrs. Edward Eckenroth who is in the W. C. T. U. room at the hospital is getting along splendidly and expects to go home in a few days.

Mrs. Saxon who is in the Centre Hall room and who has been quite seriously ill is getting along so well that in a few days she will be well enough to be taken home.

Mr. White who had his limb amputated some time ago is getting along splendidly and will be discharged from the institution before long.

Joseph Sourbeck is getting well rapidly and will be able to be taken home in a few days. Him grandfather went out to see the little fellow Sunday evening and they would'nt allow him in as it was against the rules. Johnnie says he don't forget such things. He should have gone right in and talked to the little fellow, rules or no rules.

Of Interest to Cemetery lot Owners.

The Bellefonte Cemetery Association propose to employ a man for the summer season who will devote his entire time in mowing and caring for lots, provided a sufficient number of the lot owners will place their lots in his care to provide a fund with which to pay the man who does the work.

A number of lots were cared for in this way last year by a man who gave a part of his time to it but, if a sufficient number of lots could be secured to justify it, the Association would employ a man for his full time this year. It is believed this would not only greatly improve the appearance of the cemetery but be an accommodation to many lot owners who have had difficulty in getting anyone to do this work for them.

The prices charged will be $1.50 for full lots and $1.00 for half lots for the entire season and the lots will be mowed as often as necessary to keep them in good condition.

Those who wish their lots placed on the list for care should give their names and the price for the care of their lots to the Treasurer, Miss Mitchell, before the 1st of May, in order that she may know whether there will be a sufficient number to justify the employment of the man and that the lots may be put in good condition for Memorial Day.

Five Generations Represented.

On Easter Sunday the home of Doctor Philip S. Fisher was the scene of a most pleasant gathering, it was the celebrating of Mrs. Sarah Fryberger 90th anniversary

At the happy gathering five persons representing five different and distinct generations were present they were Mrs. Sarah Fryberger, Mrs. Philip S. Fisher, Mrs. Nelson E. Robb, Mrs. Sarah Fryberger Barclay of Altoona and Richard Fryberger Barclay. Grandmother Fryberger was the recipient of over 150 Easter greetings by mail last Saturday. She is in excellent health and spirits, and she is the proud possessor of five great grand children. This grand old lady is the mother of our esteemed friend Captain C. F. Fryberger of Philipsburg, Pa. This paper extends to Grandmother Fryberger its best wishes and hope she may live many more years and enjoy the peace and happiness that reigns supreme among her children.

The tennis court is a busy place now, having been marked out and put in shape for the season's sport.

A thirty-six page booklet is being compiled as a souvenir of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. This booklet will contain exterior and interior views of the building as well as cuts of the Association's classes and clubs. Thirty-five local business men have kindly consented to advertise in this booklet thus paying the cost of producing same. Every member and friend of the Association will be provided with a free copy of this souvenir.

The badge of honesty is on every wrapper of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its worth as an alternative and tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo N. Y., for free booklet which tells of well recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe and Ellingwood that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the system.

Window Display of the I. C. S. in Bellefonte,

A window display in the sample room of the Brockerhoff Hotel has been attracting a good deal of attention and favorable comment the past few days. From the large number of people that throng around the place to view the instruction papers, bound volumes, drawing instruments, and electrical outfits of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., it is plainly evident that instruction by correspondence has made a deep impression upon the minds of the people of Bellefonte.

Some years ago teaching by correspondence was not considered practicable but the I. C. S. has proven beyond a doubt that it is not only practicable but indispensible to the man of limited means, who wishes to qualify for a larger salary or change to a more congenial occupation. This great wage earners university has qualified thousands to fill lucrative positions and is at this very moment qualifying thousands of others to solve the success problem. If you are ambitious, dissatisfied with your present position, but not familiar with the good the I. C. S. has done and is doing, a visit to the window display of this great educational institution in the sample room of the Brockerhoff Hotel may be the means of starting you on the road to a larger salary Many a man dates his success to the day he first came in contact with the I. C. S. Visit the window display today.

OBJECT TO PHEASANT BILL.

Measure Backed by Kalbfus is Meeting With Strong Opposition.

Secretary Kalbfus, of the State Game commission, has been endeavoring to get a bill through the senate and house of representatives, which local hunters claim, will practically kill pheasant hunting in this state. If it is passed it will change the time when pheasants can be killed from the old season of Oct. 15th, to Dec. 1st, to Nov. 15th, to Dec. 1st. Making the season of only fifteen days' duration, right in the middle of the deer season when it is unlawful for a hunter to use a dog. This bill has passed the state senate, and it is now before the house.

Local sportsmen are heading a movement to have it killed, and numerous letters and petitions are being sent to the different representatives.

The Honorable Members Of The House Of Representatives.

GENTLEMAN:

We the undersigned, citizens and sportsman of Centre county, Pa., remonstrate, protest and most strenuously oppose any proposed bill to shorten the open season on pheasants or ruffed grouse in this state. The present law is sufficiently stringent to protect these birds and if enforced there will be no danger of the birds decreasing in number on account of the length of the present open season. The proposed law of a 15 day open season would literally crowd the woods with bird hunters when the woods are already full of men hunting deed with rifles and it would be a great menace to the public safety. There is not the slightest danger of the ruffed grouse becoming extinct and any further restriction as to the open season would stir up antagonism to the entire system of game laws, hunters would defy, disregard and willfully break them. We advocate a simplification of the present laws as to small game and suggest that the open season on wild turkeys, pheasants, rabbits, squirrels and woodcock shall open on October 15th, and close Decemeber 1st. With an even opening there would be less illegal hunting and the temptation to kill game out of season would be reduced to the minimum. This is a copy of the petition that over fifty prominent citizens of Bellefonte have signed and will be forwarded to the House of Representatives.

—WANTED—Two girls to learn the type-setting trade at this office.

Lock Haven Cobbler has Secret Compound.

Peter C. Jobson, a shoemaker at 423 Bellefonte avenue, this city, is liable to become a multi-millionaire unless his discovery should prove worthless and there is no indications of that at present. His secret compound is, like the Altoona shoemaker's discovery, used to assist in burning coal ashes or other refuse. Aside from being a cobbler and a dealer in shoe repairing supplies, Mr. Jobson also deals in bituminous coal.

For the past 15 years he has been studying on a plan whereby ashes could be burned and has experimented from time to time with partial success. While lying in his bed meditating a few nights ago the secret came to his mind and it so impressed him that he could not sleep that night. On Friday he mixed the compound with coal ashes and was astonished at the results. His shop was better heated that day than ever before.

This morning a representative of the Express called at Mr. Jobson's shop and found that gentleman diligently at work at the cobbler's bench. When the writer entered he observed that the room was comfortably heated although the door of a small egg stove was open. That gentleman explained the action of his compound to the news gatherer, and it was quite interesting, indeed.

Today he is burning a combination of four-fifths ashes and refuse and one-fifth bituminous coal and with the compound there was a hot fire in the stove all morning. The fire burns in a circle about the cylinder and does not burn a hole through the centre as is often the case with bituminous coal. Another feature he explained was that there is very little smoke, whereas when burning bituminous coal about 10 per cent. of the heat goes up the chimney with the smoke.—Lock Haven Express.

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

You must look well after the condition of your liver and bowels. Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Act gently, all vegetable. The dose is only one pill at bedtime.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Wanted.

Men and boys wanted to learn plumbing, plastering, bricklaying, electrica trades: free catalogue; positions secured Coyne Trade Schools, New York and San Francisco.

When your Watch Stops
You cannot make it go by shaking it.

When the bowels are constipated you can disturb them with cathartics but, like the watch, they will not be able to do their allotted work until they are put into proper condition to do it.

One cannot mend a delicate piece of mechanism by violent methods, and no machine made by man is as fine as the human body.

The use of pills, salts, castor-oil and strong cathartic medicines is the violent method. The use of the herb tonic laxative, is the method adopted by intelligent people.

Lane's Family Medicine

Headache, backache, indigestion, constipation, skin diseases—all are benefited immediately by the use of this medicine.

Druggists sell it at 25c. and 50c.

A Fatal Omelet.

Ignorance of cooking is not often the direct cause of a man's death, but such an instance is related in "The Story of Two Salons." In the time of the French revolution one M. Condorcet, upon whose head as an aristocrat a price was set, sought refuge with a friend, M. Suard, who bade him return at nightfall, when means of escape would be provided. Unhappily Condorcet, being unable to exist without tobacco, went into a tavern to buy some. Still prostrate from fatigue, he thought he would take advantage of this opportunity to get some dinner and ordered an omelet.

"How many eggs do you wish to be used?" inquired the landlord, who had been eying him suspiciously. The innocent Condorcet was at his wits' end. He reflected on the size of the ordinary omelet.

"Twelve," he boldly replied.

His fate was sealed. None but an aristocrat could be so ignorant or so extravagant. He was arrested and led away to prison, from which he never emerged.

Mountains.

There used to be held in accordance with Murchison's well known geological views the general theory that mountains were mainly due to cracks which took place in the surface of the earth in remote periods, but this idea is no longer entertained by scientific men. As to the form of mountains, that which is known as table mountain finds the best example, curiously enough, at the Cape of Good Hope, a mountain, it is believed, due not to any action or phenomenon of upheaval, but to the sinking of the surrounding districts or territory. Why these peculiarly defined areas did not sink was owing, it is thought, to the probable fact that the ground under them cooled before the rest of the section, and thus the table mountain had the earlier foundation and has long retained its place. There would always be denudation, however, though proportionate with its surroundings, and therefore, owing to this fact of being higher at the start, it still keeps to its approximate elevation.

Distinguished Paper Hangers.

The paper hanger was not so much of a necessity in the old days as now, writes Miss Kate Sanborn in her book, "Old Time Wall Papers." The family often joined in the task of making the paste, cutting the paper and placing it on the walls. This was not beneath the dignity of George Washington, who, with the assistance of Lafayette, hung on the walls at Mount Vernon paper which he had purchased abroad. The story goes that the good Martha lamented in the presence of Lafayette that she would be unable to get the new paper hung in the banquet room in time for the morrow's ball in honor of the young marquis. There were no men to be found for such work. Lafayette at once pointed out to Mrs. Washington that she had three ablebodied men at her service—General Washington, Lafayette himself and his aid-de-camp—whereupon the company fell immediately to work, and the paper was hung in time for the ball.

Artful Autograph Fiend.

"One of the most interesting collections of autographs is owned by a man who cultivated the art of kicking in order to secure them," said an autograph expert. "Every signature in the collection was appended to a letter written by some prominent person in reply to a complaint made by the indefatigable kicker. He complained about everything under the sun, to railroad presidents about delays on the road, to public officials about abuses in their systems of managing public interests, to literary men and artists about shortcomings in their work, to actors and singers about some defects in a favorite role, and always his complaints were couched in such virile language as to win consideration and a reply, not from some secretary, but from the celebrity whose autograph he coveted."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

To Find the Horsepower.

A rule for finding horsepower of a pulley is to multiply the circumference of the pulley in feet by the revolutions per minute, and the product thus obtained by the width of the belt in inches, and divide the result by 600. The quotient will be the horsepower which the pulley is capable of transmitting. This rule is founded on the fact that good, ordinary single leather belting, with a tension of fifty-five pounds per inch wide, will require fifty square feet of belt surface passing over the pulley per minute for one horsepower. Fifty square feet per minute are equal to a belt one inch wide running 600 feet per minute.

A Prerogative of the Pulpit.

Dr. Bacon, a New England clergyman of long ago, was reproached by a friend with some pronunciation which was not "according to Webster." Webster lived in his parish, and the doughty old divine was not disposed to be snubbed with the dictionary. "What right has Webster to dictate my pronunciation?" he demanded haughtily. "He is one of my parishioners and ought to get his pronunciation from me and not I from him."

A Smashup.

"What did the girl do when her father discovered them eloping?"

"She burst into tears."

"What did the young man do?"

"Oh, he went all to pieces."

"What did the old man do?"

"He? Why, he exploded with rage and blew them both up."

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Judge In Jail.

"I," said an esteemed magistrate, "spent a week in jail before I entered on my judgeship. I ate the prison food. I slept in a cell. I conformed with all the prison rules. I wore the prison clothes. I did the prison work. Thus I learned the value of the sentences I was to mete out later on. I got to know what a week, a month, a year, in jail meant. As a result I am more merciful than most judges. I think it would be a good thing if every judge before taking office would spend a little while in jail as I did. He would then know the value of prison sentences, a thing he doesn't know now. Now he is like a cashier who attempts to pay out money in a coinage of which he is ignorant. In Baden this thing I speak of must be done. Every judge in Baden before he takes his seat on the bench is required by law to pass weeks like a common prisoner in jail."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Eating Grasshoppers.

"No wonder I am brown," said a globe trotter. "I am just back from the Sahara. I spent two months wandering with a caravan of camels over that white expanse of sun warmed sand. The Sahara is like the beach at Atlantic City, a flat immensity of the whitest, cleanest sand, and the strangest thing I did in my wanderings was to eat desert grasshoppers. The Arabs regard these grasshoppers as a luxury, and I was tempted to try them, just as in Paris I have been tempted to try snails. The grasshoppers were good. You plucked off the wings, the legs and the head, and then you ate the dried body. This morsel tasted precisely like an English walnut. I ate grasshoppers several times, and when I return to the Sahara I am going to eat them again."

Spelling by Ear.

The young French stenographer, whose progress in English had not kept pace with her proficiency in shorthand, was puzzling over some notes she had taken of a recitation at a public entertainment.

As she transcribed them the recitation began like this:

La fanthi wuriaf swidheu,
Oui panju oui pelone.

"That's easy," said the expert to whom she submitted the notes. "It is part of a poem that begins:

"Laugh, and the world laughs with you,
Weep, and you weep alone."

—Chicago Tribune.

Law Term Explained.

"Well, proceed," said the lawyer.

"The plaintiff resorted to an ingenious use of circumstantial evidence," said the witness.

"For the benefit of the jury state in plainer language exactly what you mean by that," interrupted the judge.

"Well, my meaning is that he lied."

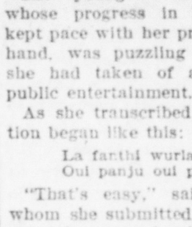
Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.



Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. An Extraordinary Biography.

The most extraordinary biography in existence is neither written nor printed. It is painted. It contains the life and adventures of Charles Magnes, a noble Venetian. Having been calumniated, he determined to set himself right in the eyes of his contemporaries and employed Paul Veronese to paint his biography. The volume has eighteen pages of vellum. Each has a large central picture, surrounded by ten smaller, each having its appropriate inscription, the whole recounting the most notable scenes in his life.

Walking.

Cash or Credit.

Women should not get credit. Neither should men. Cash is the cure. Tradesmen maybe would have a bad time for six or twelve months, and many a lady would have to "lie low," but in the end we would get both our trade and our money, and she would get her dress and at far less cost.—London Opinion.

Sunflower Most Deceitful of Plants.

"The sunflower," said a naturalist, "is the most deceitful of all plants, for it has fooled six nations. Six nations believe that the sunflower turns toward the sun, and so thoroughly are they deluded that they call it by a name which bears witness to their error. Thus, the French call the sunflower tournesol; the Spanish call it girasol; the Italians call it girasole; the Hungarians call it naptaforgo. Each of these words means 'turn to the sun.' The English and Americans don't go quite that far in admitting themselves to be the plant's dupes. They only call it sunflower. They mean by that name, though, quite as much as the other names imply. The belief is general among six nations that the sunflower turns with the sun and always faces the luminary. As a matter of fact, there is only one flower that turns or keeps with the sun—namely, the sun spurge."

Holes In the Legs.

A scientist says that hogs' legs perform a function not known to any other animal, and that is an escape pipe or pipes for the discharge of waste water or sweat not used in the economy of the body. These escape pipes are situated upon the inside of the legs, above and below the knee in the fore legs and above the gambrel joints in the hind legs, but in the latter they are very small and functions light. Upon the inside of the fore leg they are in the healthy hog always active, so that moisture is always there from about or below these orifices or ducts in the healthy hog. The holes in the leg and breathing in the hog are his principal and only means of ejecting an excess of heat above the normal, and when very warm the hog will open the mouth and breathe through that channel as well as the nostrils.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

The Economy of a Straight Line

The National Cigar Stands Company is an easy, uninterrupted, straight-line channel between tobacco planter and cigar smoker.

The tobacco makes only one stop on the way—at the factory where it is turned into cigars. It pays only one small fare for the whole trip.

It used to go in a roundabout way, from planter to leaf-broker, from broker to cigar-maker, from cigar-maker to cigar-jobber, from cigar-jobber to retailer, from retailer to you. It paid a fare—that is, another profit—at every stage.

The National Cigar Stands' plan saves four stages and four fares. That is why the cigars sold by them give

THAW IS SANE SAYS COMMISSION

District Attorney Demands Access To The Minutes.

THE CASE ADJOURNED.

Pending An Appeal-Granted Until Monday in Which to Arrange For Going to Supreme Court.

JEROME IN A WILD THRETENING RAGE.

New York, April 5.—Harry K. Thaw Thursday was declared sane by the unanimous report of the commission in lunacy appointed to inquire into his present mental condition. The moment the decision was handed down from Justice Fitzgerald's desk District Attorney Jerome was on his feet vigorously protesting against its confirmation by the court. He charged that he had been excluded from the last session of the commission and demanded to be allowed to have access to the minutes and stenographic notes of what transpired at the final mental and physical examination of the defendant.

When Justice Fitzgerald declined to turn the minutes over to the District Attorney Mr. Jerome declared he would carry the case to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, asking that a writ of prohibition or mandamus be granted to prevent a continuance of the Thaw trial until the higher court had ruled upon the legality of the commission's course.

Justice Fitzgerald reminded Mr. Jerome that he had waived the statutory rights of attending the sessions of the commission by suggesting himself that all the attorneys be excluded from the sitting in question. He then granted the District Attorney an adjournment until Monday morning next in order that he might have time to prepare his application to the Appellate Division. Mr. Jerome protested that the time was not sufficient, but Justice Fitzgerald cut him short with the announcement that the trial must be concluded forwith.

Bickford Fire Brick Company Ready to Begin Building Operations.

The Bonds of the Bickford Fire Brick Company are now being delivered and we were shown one of them today. They are the finest specimen of the printer's art, being steel engraved throughout and of the most splendid workmanship. These bonds were specially designed and printed by the E. A. Wright Bank Note Company of Philadelphia. The total issue is $350,000, they are dated April 1, 1907, and are issued in three denomiations $100, $500 and $1000. Each of these bonds bear 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually at the Pittsburg Trust Co. an institution of great financial strength, with a capitalization of $2,000,000 and surplus of $4,000,000. These Bonds mature in 30 years the Company reserving the right of redemption after April 1, 1912, at $105 and interest. Everything that could be suggested to make them a safe and desirable security has been done and they are the first lien upon 1157 acres of the highest grade fire clay to be found anywhere, estimated by experts to contain 7,840,000 tons of clay that can be mined and sold at a net profit of one dollar per ton, or if leased would yield an average royalty of .10 per ton. The title to these lands is owned in fee by this Company and has been guaranteed by the Potter Title & Trust Co. of Pittsburg. One of the strongest features of this Bond is the Sinking Fund provision requiring the Company annually commencing April 1, 1911, to deposit with the Pittsburg Trust Co. a sum equal to at least $1.00 per thousand fire brick of its gross sales each year for the redemption of the Bonds.

When subscriptions to these bonds were first taken a 75 per cent stock bonus was allowed but so rapidly was that allotment taken up that the stock bonus has been reduced to 50 per cent with the right reserved to withdraw all stock bonus on future bond sales without notice. Arrangements are now completed to begin active development of the clay mines and the immediate erection of the plant at DuBois, and it is the company's expectation to be manufacturing fire brick by Oct. 1st 1907. With the record the Bickford's have made as successful fire brick manufacturers, the superior and extensive clay deposits, and the advantages of cheap fuel and unexcelled shipping facilities afforded at DuBois. This company has the prospect of a most successful and profitable career.

IN THE FIRELIGHT.

By Margaret Lester.

Copyright, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

For a minute it seemed to him as if his beautiful plans were tumbling about his ears, just as the card houses of his childhood had fallen flat at the moment when victory perched on their gable ends. But as the boy had patiently rebuilt the card houses, so now Tom Graham resolutely set to rear anew his air castles of matrimonial happiness.

"Of course, Nellie, I'd rather you wouldn't work at all. No real man likes his wife to earn her living. But if you're set on staying at the factory a few months longer, why, let's get married anyhow, and you and I can do the work together night and morning somehow and take our dinners at the hotel on Sundays."

"Not much," replied pretty Nellie Dinsmore, patting the carpet nervously with her beaded slipper. "I'd be a fright in no time trying to work day and night. As soon as you get twenty a week, twice what I'm getting now, I'm ready to give up my job. After having ten a week to spend just on myself there's no use talking about the two of us living on $17.50 per, with taxes and insurance to pay and the cottage needing painting. If you really loved me, you'd sell the place. Tim Sullivan's dying to buy it. Then we'd furnish up a couple of rooms here in the hotel and live in style. Mrs. Conroy'd give us a special rate"—

"Of $14 a week, leaving $3.50 for clothes and incidentals."

"Well, there's the money you get for the place." Graham's face turned stern, and Nellie added hastily: "Or I'd stay at the factory until you got your raise, and then maybe we could find another place. Anyhow, we'd be putting money in bank."

Tom Graham bent over and took both the girl's hands in his.

"Nellie, dear, I've some old fashioned ideas about marriage and—you. I don't want you to live in a hotel after we're married, with nothing to do but listen to the gossip of Mrs. Conroy and her sort. I want a home"—

Nellie flung aside his hands angrily.

"Oh, well, of course, if you want a home and not a wife you might hire one of the McCarthy sisters—they're past forty and won't make gossip—to keep house for you. But as for me, I don't marry until I see something besides dishwashing in a shabby cottage before me."

Graham was very white now. In the days gone by they had played in that "shabby cottage," oh, how happily! It had been Nellie's one refuge from an unhappy, tearful mother, who had first driven her husband to drink and then followed him to a premature grave.

Something like an illuminating message flashed through his being. If he forced Nellie into a marriage that appeared distasteful to her, she might become as dissatisfied and tearful as her mother. He rose abruptly. He could not picture Nellie in tears, but there were little lines around her mouth at this moment that he did not like. He loved her, but he did not propose to wreck two lives in a futile attempt to try out the love in a cottage plan. Neither would he give up his tiny ancestral home, sole legacy of loving parents.

Nellie had been happy there only a few months before, when she had boarded with his widowed mother, but when the latter had died Nellie had taken up her quarters, with a number of other girls from the shoe factory, at a second class hotel. Somehow Tom felt she had changed from the day she stepped over the hotel's threshold, and he glared back at its brightly lighted barroom and dimly lighted parlor as he stood out in the middle of the street.

Tom was telegraph operator at the depot, and his cottage was not far from the tracks. The main street of the town led past both, so Tom seldom missed seeing Nellie each night and morning as she went to and from work. Once as she passed the cottage he was washing his few dishes, and he saw her toss her head and quicken her steps. More often, however, he was at his post in the depot. He hoped against hope that she would drop him a forgiving line or fling him a nod of friendship as she passed the depot. Instead each week he heard more of Nellie's social popularity. The boys at the new suspender factory organized a club and gave a dance. Nellie was the belle of the evening. Miss McCarthy, who had come over to the cottage to do some scrubbing, told him all about it, concluding with a graphic description of the wonderful new frock which Nellie had ordered from the city.

That afternoon the weather changed suddenly. The snow came down first in a soft swirling cloud, then with crisp, needlelike insistence. Tom threw more coal into the depot stove and made a quick run home to take the geraniums out of the window. When he came back to the station he knew that a blizzard was closing down on Ridgefield. He wondered how Nellie would get home, and then Syracuse called, and he had to put his thoughts on his work.

It took all his strength to reach the cottage across the track. His first instinct was to close all shutters and draw the curtains, but he remembered his mother's custom of setting a lamp in the window for those who might be abroad on stormy nights. Such a cozy little kitchen as it lighted, with a fire snapping in the old fashioned cook stove which Miss McCarthy polished to brilliancy at each visit!

He hummed contentedly as he sat over the teakettle and brought the bread and butter from the pantry. Then he stopped short and listened intently. What was that scratching noise at the door—yes—and now the sound of a muffled fall?

He flung open the door, and the wind blew out his lamp, but against the blur of the snow he saw a dark figure huddled on his doorstep.

He carried the woman indoors, laid her on the old fashioned settle and relighted his lamp. Then, with something like a groan, he sprang back to the inert form. It was Nellie!

Fifteen minutes later a white and very quiet Nellie sat before the snapping fire with blankets wrapped around her still trembling figure and a cavalier in short sleeves serving her tea and toast.

"And now tell me how it happened," Tom said, with authority.

"I didn't realize it was storming so dreadfully, and my machine broke down just before closing time. The foreman—the new man, you know, from Boston—said that if I wanted to make up the time I'd lost—I'm doing piecework now—he had some extra work to do, too, and he'd see I got home all right. I was sort of glad to stay, because it's fierce to go home to a cold room in the hotel a night like this, and when you have a headache you just hate to sit evenings in the parlor with a lot of folks and the piano jangling. So I stayed, but—but"—her voice was low and tear heavy—"on the way down the stairs—he—he tried to kiss me, and then I ran through the snow, sort of blind, I guess, and the first thing I didn't know where I was. I just saw the light—I didn't know it was your cottage."

Pride struggled with relief in her tired voice.

"Have some more tea," said Tom abruptly, and then for some minutes he busied himself around the room, standing before her at last in his heaviest outdoor raiment.

"Where are you going? Please don't leave me alone."

"This storm is no joke, Nellie," he said quietly. "First I've got to get in fuel to last us all night and perhaps longer. Then, before we're snowed in for fair, I'm going to bring over the Rev. Mr. Gary." Nellie rose uncertainly to her feet. "Now, don't get flurried. You've had your lesson, and I've had mine, and we're going to be married tonight. You can't get to the hotel in this storm, thank God, and you can't stay here except as my wife"—his voice turned suddenly tender—"and I want you to be my wife."

Nellie rubbed her face against his shabby, fuzzy overcoat. "All right, dear," she said docilely, and then, even as his arms closed around her, she murmured: "Tom, dear, this shiny fire looks so good and homelike. Those registers up at the hotel sort of give you a chill."

And then Tom knew that the cottage looked shabby no longer.

Large Ears of Forest Animals.

Within the limits of particular groups large ears may be taken, as a rule, to indicate either great powers of hearing or the necessity of catching every wave of sound. Thus, forest dwelling animals generally have much larger, and especially broader, ears than their relatives inhabiting open country. An excellent instance of this is afforded by the okapi of the Semliki forest, as contrasted with the giraffe of the more open districts of Africa—the ears in the one case being excessively broad and leaflike, while in the other they are comparatively narrow and pointed. Similarly Grevy's zebra, which inhabits scrub jungles in Somaliland and northeast Africa generally, has much larger and wider ears than the ordinary zebra of the open veldt.—Scientific American.

Everybody Happy.

Pater—You are disgracefully lazy. It's queer that you don't take after me. There's nothing I like so well as to work and make money.

Filius—And there's nothing I like so well as to spend it. We both should be satisfied. And yet you kick!—Cleveland Leader.

Work is not a man's punishment. It is his reward and his strength.—George Sand.

Deed of a Gallant Nobody.

It is not always the information carried by the recognized aids-de-camp to and from the commanding officer in battle which is of highest value. There was a supreme moment during the battle of Waterloo when the Duke of Wellington was left absolutely alone, and that not when he was running the risk of capture by sailing through the enemy's lines. It simply meant that every galloper had gone his way, each with his message. At this moment a stranger rode up to the duke and quietly asked, "Can I be of any use, sir?" The duke took one glance at him and unhesitatingly answered, "Yes, take this pencil note to the commanding officer," pointing to a regiment in the heat of the battle. The stranger took the note and galloped away with it through the thick of the fight. He delivered it, but what happened to him no man knows. The duke always declared that to be one of the most gallant deeds that had ever come under his notice. It was done without prospect of acknowledgment or reward, and neither attended its successful accomplishment.—London Standard.

A Frost Desolated Land.

I learned from an eyewitness something about Spitzbergen, that desert arctic island 580 miles north of the North cape of Norway and within 700 miles of the north pole: a frost desolated land, where the grass grows longer than the trees and huge glaciers in the ice bridged valleys amid the jagged mountains move majestically down into the sea until mighty icebergs, a monstrous birth, break off and rise to the surface amid thunderous reports—once the only sound that broke the profound silence of those awful solitudes. Spitzbergen is the only spot of earth that is positively known as No Man's land. It is the possession of no country and has nothing even resembling a specified government. The island seems likely to remain No Man's Land, though it is said that an effort has been made by Norway to establish some sort of protectorate over it.—National Magazine.

Edward III.'s Drum Corps.

Probably introduced from the east, is frequently mentioned in the accounts of the first crusade. When Edward III. and his queen made their triumphal entry into Calais, "tambours," or drums, were among the instruments which were played in their honor. Another of these was called a "naker," or kettledrum, taken, together with its name, from the Arabs. The poet Chaucer also mentions this instrument in his description of the tournament in the "Knightes Tale:"

Fyfes, trompes, nakeres and clariounes,
That in the bataille blowen blody sounes.

The king generally kept a troop of these bandsmen or minstrels in his employ, and we read that Edward II. on one occasion gave a sum of 60 shillings to Roger the trumpeter, Janino the nakerer and others for their performances.—Chambers' Journal.

The Soul and the Beard.

In Russia it was the common belief up to the time of Peter the Great that beardless men were also soulless and that a man who purposely admitted having his beard marred could never enter heaven. The great Peter above referred to ordered his heathens to "shave up," so as to appear more civilized, and when they refused to comply with his edict he fined the wealthy and middle classes 100 rubles for each beard that was permitted to grow and each peasant and laborer a kopeck for the same privilege. Finally the priests were appealed to, and they informed their parishioners that unless they submitted to having their beards shaved they need not expect that St. Nicholas, the gatekeeper of heaven, would be able to distinguish them from the bearded Turks. That had the desired effect.

Cinnamon Topers.

Both cinnamon and cassia contain tannin, and too much of either has the same effect as excessive tea drinking. There are cinnamon and cassia topers who are as much addicted to the habit of chewing the bark as some men are to chewing tobacco. The cinnamon topers acquire their habit chiefly from working in the woods stripping the bark from the trees and drying it. It is graded by men who taste a tiny morsel of each lot. At first this causes the lips and throat to swell, but in time this undesirable effect overcomes itself, and a genuine love for the bark is acquired.

American Regard For Women.

Toward women the American man's attitude is fine. She is neither his deity nor his doll. He simply treats her with deference. His chivalry has as little to do with saccharine utterances, scraping feet and bended knees as has his patriotism with hysterical shriekings and the waving of ensanguined flags.—Lippincott's.

One's Point of View.

"I liked that play we saw last night because it has a happy ending."

"Why, man, the husband in it terrorizes his wife into trembling and silent submission and ends by killing his mother-in-law!"

"I said it had a happy ending."—Baltimore American.

Extenuating.

A Frenchman was convicted of killing his mother-in-law. When asked if he had anything to say for himself before taking sentence, he said, "Nothing, excepting I lived with her twenty-one years and never did it before."

Not What They Expected.

Bride—Here is a telegram from papa. Bridegroom (eagerly)—What does he say? Bride (reading)—Do not come home. All will be forgiven.

Most Wonderful Cave In the World.

The most wonderful cave in the world is in the island of Tonga, in the south Pacific. Byron called it "a chapel of the seas." It is formed in a rock that is almost surrounded by the ocean. This rock is about sixty feet high and broad proportionately. Many years ago a boy, the son of a native chief, was chasing a huge turtle, when his game seemed to sink into the rock. The lad watched and waited until the tide fell, disclosing a small opening in the rock about six feet under low water mark. Diving boldly, the young hunter entered the aperture and, to his surprise, came to the surface inside the rock. The rock was hollow, and its interior was found afterward, when the natives explored it with torches, to contain many beautiful stalactites. When attacked and followed by enemies, the natives, who know the secret, leave their canoes, plunge into the water and disappear. Their foes linger, astonished at their disappearance, for no person not acquainted with it would suspect that the rock was hollow.

Origin of Two Familiar Proverbs.

It was the habit of the great Greek painter Apelles never to let a day pass, however busy he chanced to be, without practicing his hand by tracing the outline of some object, a custom which has now passed into a proverb—"No day without a line." He also made it a rule, when he had finished a canvas, to exhibit it to the view of those who visited his studio, while he himself, hidden behind the picture, would listen to their comments. It is said that once a shoemaker censured him for having painted a pair of shoes with one latchet too few. Next day the shoemaker, revisiting the studio, saw that the painter had corrected the mistake. He then began to criticise the leg of the portrait, upon which Apelles came forward and reminded him that a shoemaker should not go beyond the shoes, a piece of advice which has also crystallized into a proverb, "Let the cobbler stick to his last."—Pliny the Elder.

At Sea In a Coffin.

It was the French assassin Lupi who escaped to sea from Cayenne in a coffin. He managed to get some nails, tar and cotton, and one dark night he got into the coffin shed. He selected a fine, stanch and seaworthy coffin and fastened the lid in order to turn it into a deck, leaving a cockpit sufficient to enable him to crawl in. He calked all the joints as well as he could, and when this work was finished he made a pair of paddles out of two planks. Then he brought out his craft with great precaution. Without much difficulty he reached the water's edge. Silently and slowly he proceeded in the hope of reaching either Venezuela or British Guiana, 150 nautical miles distant. Fortunately or unfortunately for Lupi, the steamer Abeille, returning from the Antilles, off Paramaribo picked him up, half drowned and almost in a fainting condition, and a few hours later he was in irons in his cell.

Too Long Winded.

The inhabitants of the Canary isles, finding themselves oppressed by famine, sent to the governor of Galicia one of their head men as an ambassador. They advised him not to lose himself in long winded talk. He promised and kept his word. He took with him a large number of sacks, and, arriving at the town where the governor was on the circuit, he opened one of them before him, saying only these words: "It is empty. Fill it."

The governor ordered this sack and the rest to be filled with meal, but he said to the speaker: "You had no need to tell us that the sack was empty nor that it was necessary to fill it. We should have readily guessed that. Another time be briefer in your talk."—Bon Vivant.

Look Into Space.

A young man whose eyes had been troubling him consulted a New York oculist. "What you want to do," said the specialist, "is to take a trip every day on the ferry or in New Jersey, Long Island—any place where you can see long distances. Look up and down the river, across fields or, if the worst comes to the worst, go on the top of a skyscraper and scan the horizon from that point. The idea is to get distance. You use your eyes a great deal and always at close range. You can't use them any other way in town. Even when not reading or writing the vision is limited by small rooms and narrow streets. No matter in what direction you look, there is a blank wall not far away to shut off sight."

Travel Free.

"Conductor," said the gasping passenger, vainly trying to raise a window, "there are at least a billion microbes in this car."

"You ought to be able to stand that if the company can," growled the street car conductor. "We don't get a blamed cent for carrying 'em."—Chicago Tribune.

Lies Low.

"Of course she doesn't like discussions about ages."

"No. Usually when she's queried about hers she just says nothing, but lies low."

"Yes, or if she says anything she lies low."—Philadelphia Press.

Convenient.

"So you have three pairs of glasses, professor?"

"Yes. One pair to read with, another for nearsightedness and a third pair to look for the other two with."—Fliegende Blatter.

Rest is the great restorer. We tire our muscles by exercise and then rest to restore them; yet a great many of us do not stop to think how little rest we give to our stomachs. As a usual thing no part of our bodies is so generally overworked as our digestive organs. A tired and overworked stomach will give signs of distress to which we pay no heed until at last Dyspepsia takes hold. Indigestion is just a warning and if we heed the warning we can easily avoid further consequences. KODOL is a most thorough stomach relief. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach the needed rest and greatly assists in restoring it to its normal acuvity and usefulness. KODOL is sold on a guarantee relief plan. It is sold here by Green's Pharmacy.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Eleven boarders at Fort Kline.

—The woman in black is traveling our streets again.

—Linn Blackford shipping clerk at the Bellefonie Furnace is confined to his home with sickness. This is the first time Linn has lost, in three years. Hope you will get around soon old fellow.

—The wedding of Harry Hazel of Williamsport, formerly of this place, and Miss Mabel Otto, daughter of Mrs. Hamilton Otto, is announced to take place on Wednesday, April 24 h.

—Mr. Girard Child, of Cambridge, Mass., spent his Easter in Bellefonte. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the wedding of Mr. Child and Miss Mary Harris Weaver will take place the second week in June.

—Charles A. Knupp, teacher of the grammar school in the Stone building went to his home in Harrisburg for the Easter vacation and was unable to return on Monday on account of a bad attack of nervous prostration.

—A young man went into "Burkie" at the station on Wednesday and said "Give me a ticket to Lemont." Burkie said in a rather mild way "23," the fellow turned around and walked out. The price of a ticket to Lemont is 23 cents, and the young man thought Burkie wanted him to "skidoo."

—The ladies and gentlemen of the Epworth League are preparing to give a musical in the lecture room of the church at which some of the best talent in Bellefonte will participate. After the entertainment ice cream, cake, coffee and candy will be sold. This promises to be an evening of rare pleasure and all should make arrangements to attend.

—On Wednesday evening Christy Smith's famous orchestra played at the graduation exercises of Boalsburg High School. This musical organization of young men have a splendid reputation all over the county, and every member is a professional at the work. It is composed of Christy Smith, Henry Brown, Frank Deitrick, Harry Garbrick and Lewis Hill.

—Robert V. Hoy, freight shipping and car record clerk for the Bellefonte Central R. R. Co., resigned his position April 1st. He was succeeded by Mr. Van Jodon formerly of the Potter—Hoy Hardware company. Mr. Jodon goes to the Railroad Company highly recommended by this firm and we feel positive will meet with success in the business.

—Some of the papers of the town mentioned that Messrs. Schad and Brown purchased from the Humes estate all the property on Lamb street from the electric light station to Spring street. We interviewed Mr. Schad this morning and he says they have not bought but that perhaps in a few days a deal may be consummated, as yet their is a great deal of difference in figures.

—The Garman mansion on High St. will be remodled on the exterior and interior this spring. As soon as ever the weather is favorable the carpenters, painters and paper hangers will begin work. Among the emprovements a magnificent porch will be added to the home extending around the upper end of the house. When completed it will be one of the prettiest homes in Bellefonte.

—Among those who moved last week were E. J. Teaman from the Cooke house on Willowbank street to the R. M. Magee house on Penn street; Herman Miller from east High street to the house on Reynolds avenue recently occupied by the Daughertys, the latter moving to Lemont; Chas. McClellans moved from East Lamb street to the Witmer house outside the borough limit.

—A musical will be given in the Methodist church at Howard, on Saturday evening April 20th, for the benefit of the Bellefonte hospital. In instrumental music there will be piano, violin, cornet and clarionet, while the vocal music will include quartets, solos, duets and choruses. There will also be recitations and select readings. The admission will be but 10 and 15 cents and everybody is invited to attend and help swell the receipts for the hospital.

—In accordance with the request of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Bellefonte hospital for an Easter donation of eggs and potatoes from the pupils of the public schools, last Thursday, all responded most liberally. The total contribution was just sixty-one dozen and eleven, or 743 eggs in all and ten bushels of potatoes. There was not a scholar in the school who did not contribute either an egg or a potato while some took a half dozen eggs and others a peck or half bushel of potatoes.

—Poor "Curfew" will it ring in Bellefonte?

—The Centre County Medical Society held their annual meeting and banquet at the Brockerhoff House Tuesday.

—Beezer & Gentzel gathered a car load of fine horses from over the county and will ship them Wednesday to West Chester.

—Mrs. Mary Ann Johnston occupies the D. A. R. room at the hospital, and from reports she is getting along splendidly.

—Former commissioner Daniel Heckman has been engaged to manage the Brockerhoff and Humes farms in this county.

—After they get those old stables torn down from in front of the Academy then this magnificent school will present a beautiful sight from off the hill.

—After the Bush and Brockerhoff hotels put up their rates to $2.50 a day, the Garman, Brant and Haag hotels will do a whole lot more business.

—Some night when you are at the skating rink take a peep on the gallery over the commissioned officers room and see two old spooners telling one another "Love's Old Sweet Story."

—For the erection of the addition at the P. R. R. baggage room the company had "Huston" the architect to draw the plans and "Sanderson" the contractor to look after the building. No black marble is being used.

—Miss Marian Spangler has accepted a position with the Ardell Lumber Company as stenographer. Miss Spangler had been working for the Bellefonte Trust Co. but resigned to accept the one where she is now employed.

—The P. R. R. passenger station at Lewisburg was broken open and robbed on Monday night. The safe was blown open and contents taken. These are supposed to be the same men that robbed the Centre Hall post office on Easter Sunday.

—About the seediest, homliest looking aggreation that has been in Bellefonte lately was the Johnstown Tri-State Base Ball team when in town on their way west to Johnstown. They may be there with the goods but my oh my what a fierce looking bunch they were. We hope to hear good results from them no matter how seedy they look.

—Haupt Brothers have received the contract from Benjamin Bradley to build the Parrish Hall at the Episcopal church of concrete blocks. This will be the first building of the kind in Bellefonte and will be looked forward to with much interest. In Altoona, Tyrone and other cities quite a number of building are built of these blocks and have proven substantial and are very pretty.

—On Sunday the "B. G. C." club were royally entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sellers of Waddle. The young ladies drove up in the morning in a large carriage and returned about six o'clock. Among those who enjoyed the outing and dinner were Misses Bella and Florence Lowery, Viola Robb, Anna Nolan, Ada and Pearl Powers, Nora Loveland and Mable Otto.

—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Goldberg of Philadelphia announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Rae Goldberg to Mr. Jacob Finkelstine of Bellefonte. The wedding will occur on Sunday June 2nd 1907. Mr. Finkelstine is practically a stranger in our midst but since coming to Bellefonte has made hosts of friends who extend their heartiest congratulations to him.

—A petition and remonstrance to proposed shortening of the Pheasant season in this state has been prepared and left at Knisely's pool room for the signatures of all sportsman and others interested better game laws. In tomorrow's paper we will give the substance of the petition. In the meantime call at Knisely's and see the petition. The petition was drawn up by James C. Furst Esq.

—A crowd of young ladies known as the "M. M. C." club took supper with Miss Eva Davis at Julian last Sunday evening. They went up on the 4.43 train and returned at 8:16. Everyone reports having had a royal time and all they could eat. Among those present were Misses Elsie Bible, Barbara Levi, Minnie Cherry, Mrs. Cameron Stover, Nora Stover, Florence Lamb, Carrie Miller and Mary Conly.

—Again our attention has been called to four boys, non-of them over sixteen who were intoxicated. These are not the same boys that were seen drunk on our streets several months ago, but a different crowd altogether. Now the parents of these boys are working quietly to find out who got them the booze and if they find out who it was some one will smart for it. Hope to goodness they can run down the parties and stop this kind of business.

—Miss Henrietta Butts the efficient stamp clerk at the Bellefonte Post Office has been transferred to the same position in the Philadelphia Post Office. Miss Butts has been perfect in her duties in our Post Office and we sincerely regret to loose her but hope she will get along as successfully in the Quaker City as in Bellefonte. She has hosts of friends here who will feel sorry to know of her leaving but will wish her unbounded success in her new duties. It is said her position in the Bellefonte Post Office will be filled by Lamar McClure —Wonder if this winter will be as cold as last.

—A Son's of Veteran camp will be organized in Bellefonte in a couple of weeks

—The trout season opens Monday. Some of the sports will start out Sunday night.

—The Academy boys are getting the meadow in good shape for the coming base ball games.

—Lester Musser son of Mr. and Mrs. William Musser is quite ill at his home on Lamb street.

—Wonder if the Central R. R. of Pa. Co. or the P. R. R. Co. will run an excursion to Lock Haven for the great Odd Fellows convention. About two hundred from Bellefonte expect to attend.

—Miss Sarah Fitzgerald entertained very pleasantly at her home on Spring street on Tuesday evening in honor of Misses Barner and Rook of Williamsport who are guests at Miss Fitzgerald's home.

—Ben Gentzell, the well known horse dealer, while bringing some horses from the country on Tuesday afternoon was kicked by a colt that broke his leg between the knee and ankle. He is in the hospital and is getting along as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

—We regret very much to announce the serious illness of Mrs. F. W. Crider who is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doreworth at Ardmore, a suberb of Philadelphia. We do not know the nature of Mrs. Crider's illness but is so serious that Mr. Crider was summoned to the city on Tuesday evening.

—Should Jacob From be cleared at the coming trial of the murder of Josiah Dale, he will return home a better man and will live a different life. It is said some pretty stiff rumors are being circulated in regards to other suspects at Centre Hall, and if From is cleared other arrests will be made.

FIFTH REGIMENT BUGLE CORPS.

Sergeant Toner Hugg has Selected Fifteen Good Men.

On Decoration Day the citizens of Bellefonte will have the extreme pleasure of hearing the Drum Corps of the Fighting Fifth.

Sergeant Toner Hugg of Milesburg has received a full acquipment of bugles and drums, and every night a rehearsal is held in our little sister town. Sergeant Hugg is a professional bugeler and is hard to beat in the entire Division of the guards, he has carefully selected men that perfectly understand music and will readily get on to the march time strains that our boys in blue will keep step to. We cannot help feel proud of this organization as they are all boys from laround our homes. Sergeant Hugg was one of the boys that served with Col. Taylor in the South during the Spanish—American war and his being appointed at the head of this corps is considered a compliment by his comrades. We feel sure Hugg and his able assistants will fill the required bill. The roster is as follows:—Toner A. Hugg Sergeant.

Death of Mrs. Campbell.

On Thursday evening at 10 o'clock the angel of death entered the Campbell home at State College and called away the life of Mrs. Henry Campbell wife of former county commissioner Henry Campbell (now deceased). She has been a patient sufferer for quite a long time with cancer trouble. She was a sister of John G. Bailey the present County Commissioner. She leaves to mourn her death three daughters and four sons, five brothers and one sister. She was a good, kind, christian lady and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. The funeral occured on Monday morning, services held at her late home at 9 o'clock, and interment at Fairbrook.

May be Paid for Attending Drill.

Representative Cochrane, of Williamsport, on Wednesday last introduced into the legislature a bill which provides that the members of the N. G. P., are to be paid fifty cents for each drill attended and fined sixty cents for each drill missed. It calls for at least forty-eight drills during the year and twelve of these to be held during the months of July, August and September. This is the out come of a considerable discussion all over the country, and is offered as the best solution of the attendance problem. The bill carries an appropriation of $301 000 to put it into effect.

DEATH OF ALFRED SMITH.

Served his Country Faithfully During the Dark Days of the Rebellion.

When Abraham Lincoln called for Volunteers during the "dark days of the 60's" many brave boys and young men answered the call. So many of them laid down their lives on the battle fields for the sake of their country, and many received wounds from the enemy's guns that never fully recovered.

On Monday evening Alfred Smith of Milesburg one of the men referred to above peacefully passed into that great beyond.

He was an old soldier—one of the bravest men that ever went to the front, and one of the first to answer "I am ready to do my duty for my country." He went to the front, fought and was wounded and when at last that great day came when the angel of Peace spread her wings over a bleeding yet undivided country, he returned home having done his duty faithfully and honorably. Now today he rests with the "storied brave." Greater love hath no man shown.

Alfred Smith first enlisted in Co I. 53 P. V. I. his second enlistment was in Co. H. of 148, P. V. I. He afterwards served in Co G 52 P. V. I. He participated in most all the battles these regiments were engaged in. He was wounded three times, once at Petersburg, Cold Harbor and at the Wilderness.

For forty-five years he has been the efficient blacksmith at McCoy and Linn's Iron Works, and was always at his post of duty to perform his work in a commendable manner. He was a good kind husband and father and will be wonderfully missed in the home. But his life's work is ended and he is at rest.

Alfred S. Smith was commander of the George L. Potter Post 261, G. A. R. at Milesburg. He was born in Centre county Feb 11, 1846, and died on April 9, the anniversary of Lee's Surrender at Appomatix Court House at which gathering he (Alfred Smith) was present. He was also a charter member of the Bald Eagle Lodge 410 I. O. O. F. He was 61 years, 1month and 28 days old.

He leaves to mourn his death a loving wife Anna M. Smith, and the following children, William H. of Altoona; Claude W. of Bellefonte; Alvin R. Columbus, O.; Alfred F. of Snow Shoe; Lee R. and Clair W. at home, one daughter Mary B. died Nov. 22, 1884.

The funeral services will be held at his late home at Milesburg Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Roland. Altoona paper's copy.

Miss Hendrixson Injured.

Miss Agusta Hendrixson governess at the Shoemaker home was badly hurt on Wednesday from being thrown from a horse. Miss Hendrixson who is quite an expert rider was traveling toward the Armor Farm quarries on one of Shoemakers horses when an engine came along and the animal frightened and threw the lady from its back. Her foot caught in the stirrup and she was dragged a great distance over the stones and rough road. The horse was stopped and she was tenderly carried into the Shoemaker home. A physicians was immediately summoned and found her badly bruised and cut and several stitches were necessary to close a large wound on her head. It is certainly a miracle the young lady escaped being killed. She is resting easier today although she suffers considerably from her fall and from being dragged.

Opening of the Trout Fishing Season

One week from last Monday will be April 15th, and the opening of the trout fishing season. Quite naturally this is a day and date always anxiously looked forward to by all disciples of Izaak Walton, and we have them in goodly numbers not only in Bellefonte but all through Centre county. Unlike most years for some time past, when the water would be low and clear and piscatorialists would have an opportunity to inspect the streams and see what the outlook for the opening day would be, there has been no such opportunity so far this year. The waters have not only been high but in most of the streams throughout the county have been quite cloudy so that it has been next to impossible to see the fish in the stream, and up to this time none of the local fishermen can ever venture a prediction as to whether trout will be plentiful or scarce this year.

Henry Kohlbrecker Receives License.

Some few weeks ago we stated that Harry Austin had bought the hotel at Milesburg and on and after the 1st of April he would take charge and run the tavern. We find that Mr. Kohlbrecker has the hotel leased for several years and that he will have full control until this lease expires. He was granted the license this week and is ready again to serve the general public in the same old friendly way.

—Miss M. Snyder wishes to announce that the correct models in tailored and dress hats will be ready for exhibit Friday April 12, 1907. Miss Snyder has secured the services of Miss Unice Griffing of New York City as her designer.
